Captain Paul Masterton was born in Paterson, New Jersey, on December 31, 1911 and was graduated and commissioned Ensign from the United States Naval Academy on June 1, 1933. He has been awarded the Legion of Merit with Combat "V," twice presented the Distinguished Flying Cross, and awarded the Air Medal six times as well as the American Defense Service Medal, the American Campaign Medal, World War Two Victory Medal, Navy Occupation Service Medal, Asia Clasp and the National Defense Service Medal. Prior to reporting to the USS INTREPID as Commanding Officer on 2 October 1958, Captain Masterton served as Commander, Airborne Early Warning Wing Atlantic, and Commander, Fleet Air Argentia with additional duty as Commander, Barrier Atlantic.

Captain Paul Masterton, USN

our country's defenses, as many men have stood throughout our history...

The Tripolitan Ketch, MASTICO, captured prior to the war of 1812, was renamed INTREPID by Commodore Preble. Prior to going down with all hands on a suicide mission, the first INTREPID successfully sank the enemy-held USS PHILADELPHIA.

Built in Boston in 1874, the second INTREPID was brig-rigged with an iron hull, 170 feet long and weighed 438 tons. She was decommissioned and sold in 1892. The third INTREPID, designed and used as a training vessel, was built at Mare Island in 1904. Six feet longer than the second INTREPID and weighing 1800 tons, her ordnance included four six-pounders and two one-pounders.

In 1941, the keel of the fourth INTREPID was laid at Newport News, Virginia. The IN-TREPID sailed from Norfolk in 1943, and proceeded to duty in the Pacific, to be on the scene at the Marshall Islands, Truk, Kwajelein, Okinawa, Formosa and Leyte. In 1946, the "I" was taken out of commission, only to be recommissioned in 1954 at Portsmouth Naval Ship Yard. At this time, an extensive conversion program included the installation of steam catapults. The present angle deck was added in the beginning of 1957 at Brooklyn Naval Ship Yard.

This is the INTREPID that set sail from Norfolk on Friday the 13th of February 1959 for a tour of duty with the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean. Before returning to the States, the INTREPID will have displayed the flag in the ports of Gibraltar, Palma, Naples, Athens, Cannes, Barcelona, Palermo and Livorno.

The same hull that served during World War II in the Pacific is now on a mission of peace.

Commander Malcolm Winfield Cagle, USN, reported aboard the INTREPID as operations officer. He relieved Commander Paul M. Paul as Executive Officer on 13 March 1959. A graduate of the United States Naval Academy, Class of 1941, Commander Cagle has been awarded the Navy Cross, The Distinguished Flying Cross, and Air Medals. He was relieved as Executive Officer by Commander Charles Paul Muckenthaler, the Operations Officer of the INTREPID for the greater part of our cruise. Commander Cagle is presently at SHAPE Headquarters, Paris, as Commander, Striking Fleet, Atlantic Representative in Europe.

REPORTING ABOARD

The first impression a sailor has when reporting aboard the INTREPID is the size of the ship.

Within a few days, he is shuffled from office to office, up and down ladders and finally to the division where he meets the men with whom he will work. Soon he learns that the ship has a barber shop, soda fountain, a library, and a cobbler shop; only a part of the many services necessary for a population of nearly 3000.

A few of the INTREPID's vital statistics will help to perimeter her vastness:

Two thousand pounds of potatoes are required for one meal for the crew. Enough gasoline is carried on board to drive the family car for 250 years.

Three football games could be played simultaneously on the flight deck. There are 2,892 telephones, 12,827 electric lights and eighty drinking fountains aboard the INTREPID.

The ship becomes "home" to the sailor. On our extended cruise to many ports of call, the INTREPID is "home;" a little bit of the states, in a sea of different customs and strange tongues.

*A sailor comes from many places.
Home was a sprawling ranch,
a quiet suburb, or a chaotic city street, till he is brought to a new city . . .*

... a new home, a floating city called INTREPID.

And the northern villager, the lanky ranch hand, the southern drawl, meet the man from the huge eastern city as each enters a new world . . .

and strangers become friends . . .

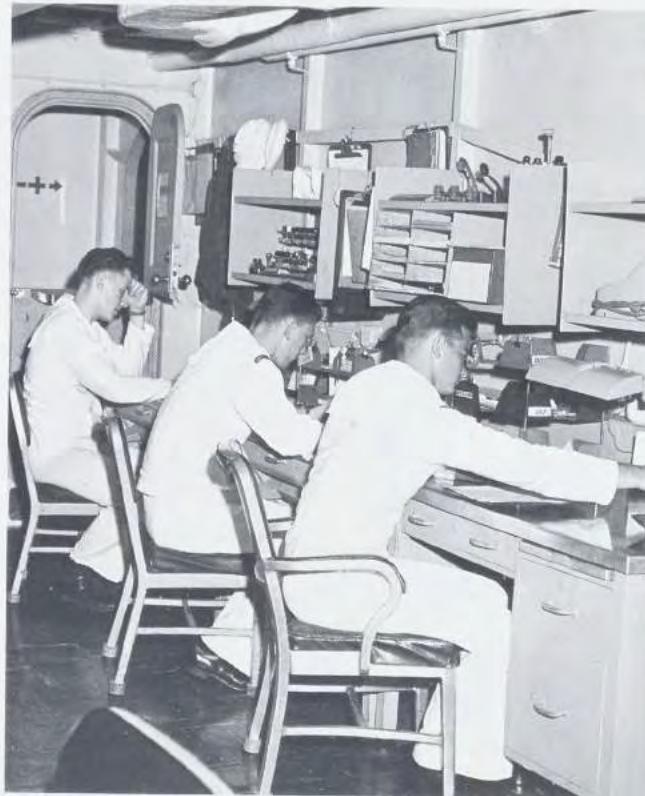

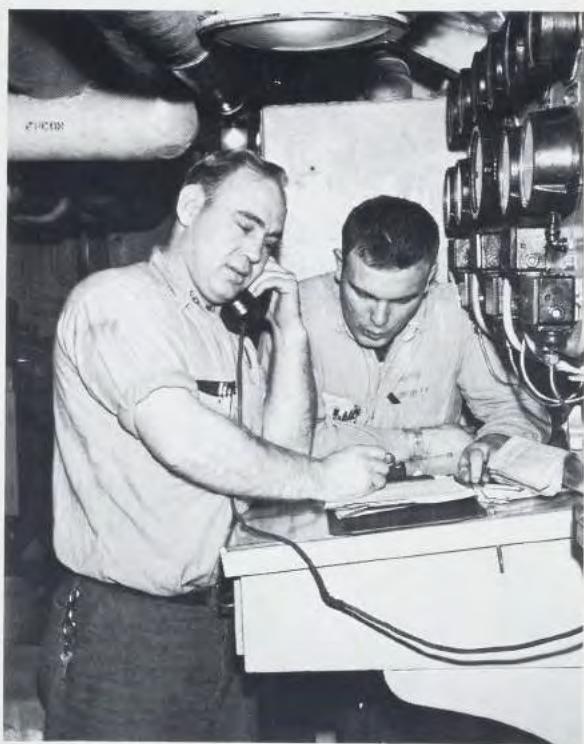

*An introduction to a new town...
a shot in the arm,
records and papers; "open wide,"
and a captain's inspection...*

... assigned to a division ...

...a part of the Intrepid team.

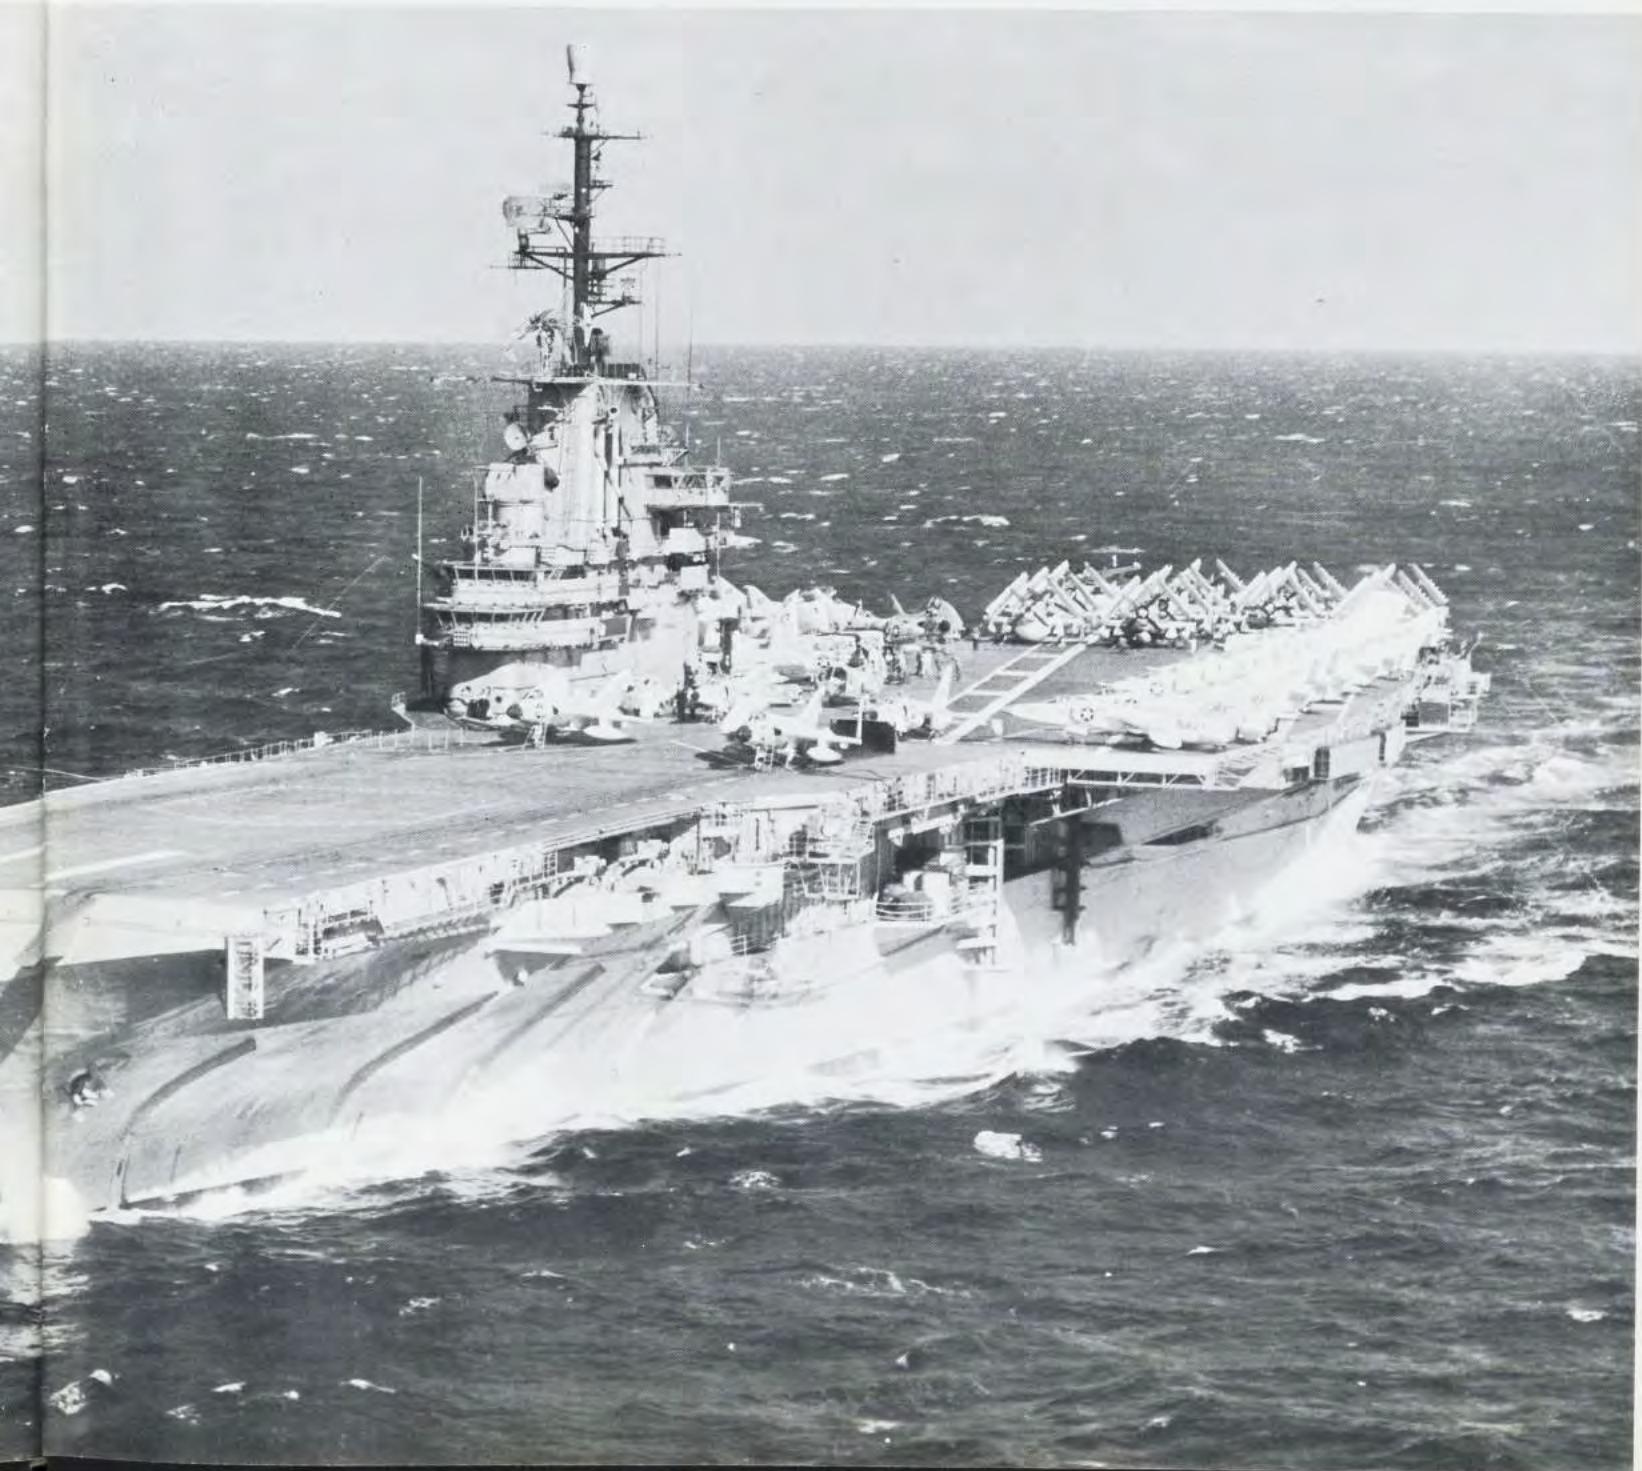

*When the first hitch is over,
some will return to that ranch or suburb or city street,*

while others meet the challenge of a naval career...

GETTING UNDERWAY

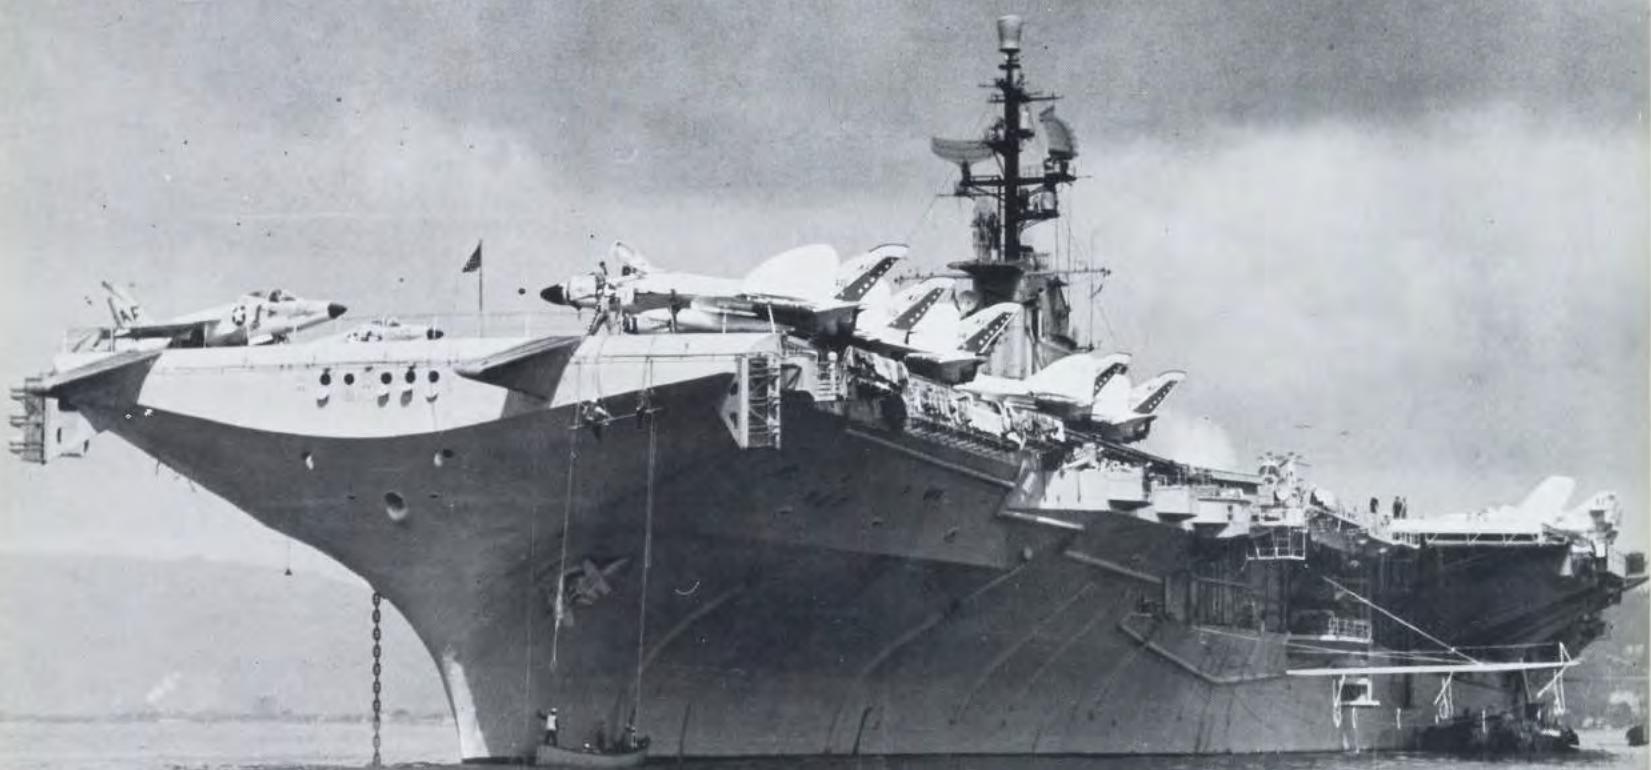

On short notice, this huge vessel must be fully operational at sea. With one half the crew ashore, she must be able to build up steam, hoist anchor and clear the harbor rapidly. Each component of the ship must be roused from in-port lethargy to become fully manned and ready for sea. Time is of the essence.

The INTREPID lies at anchor, peacefully at rest.....and then the radio begins to chatter.....an emergency sortie.

GENERAL QUARTERS

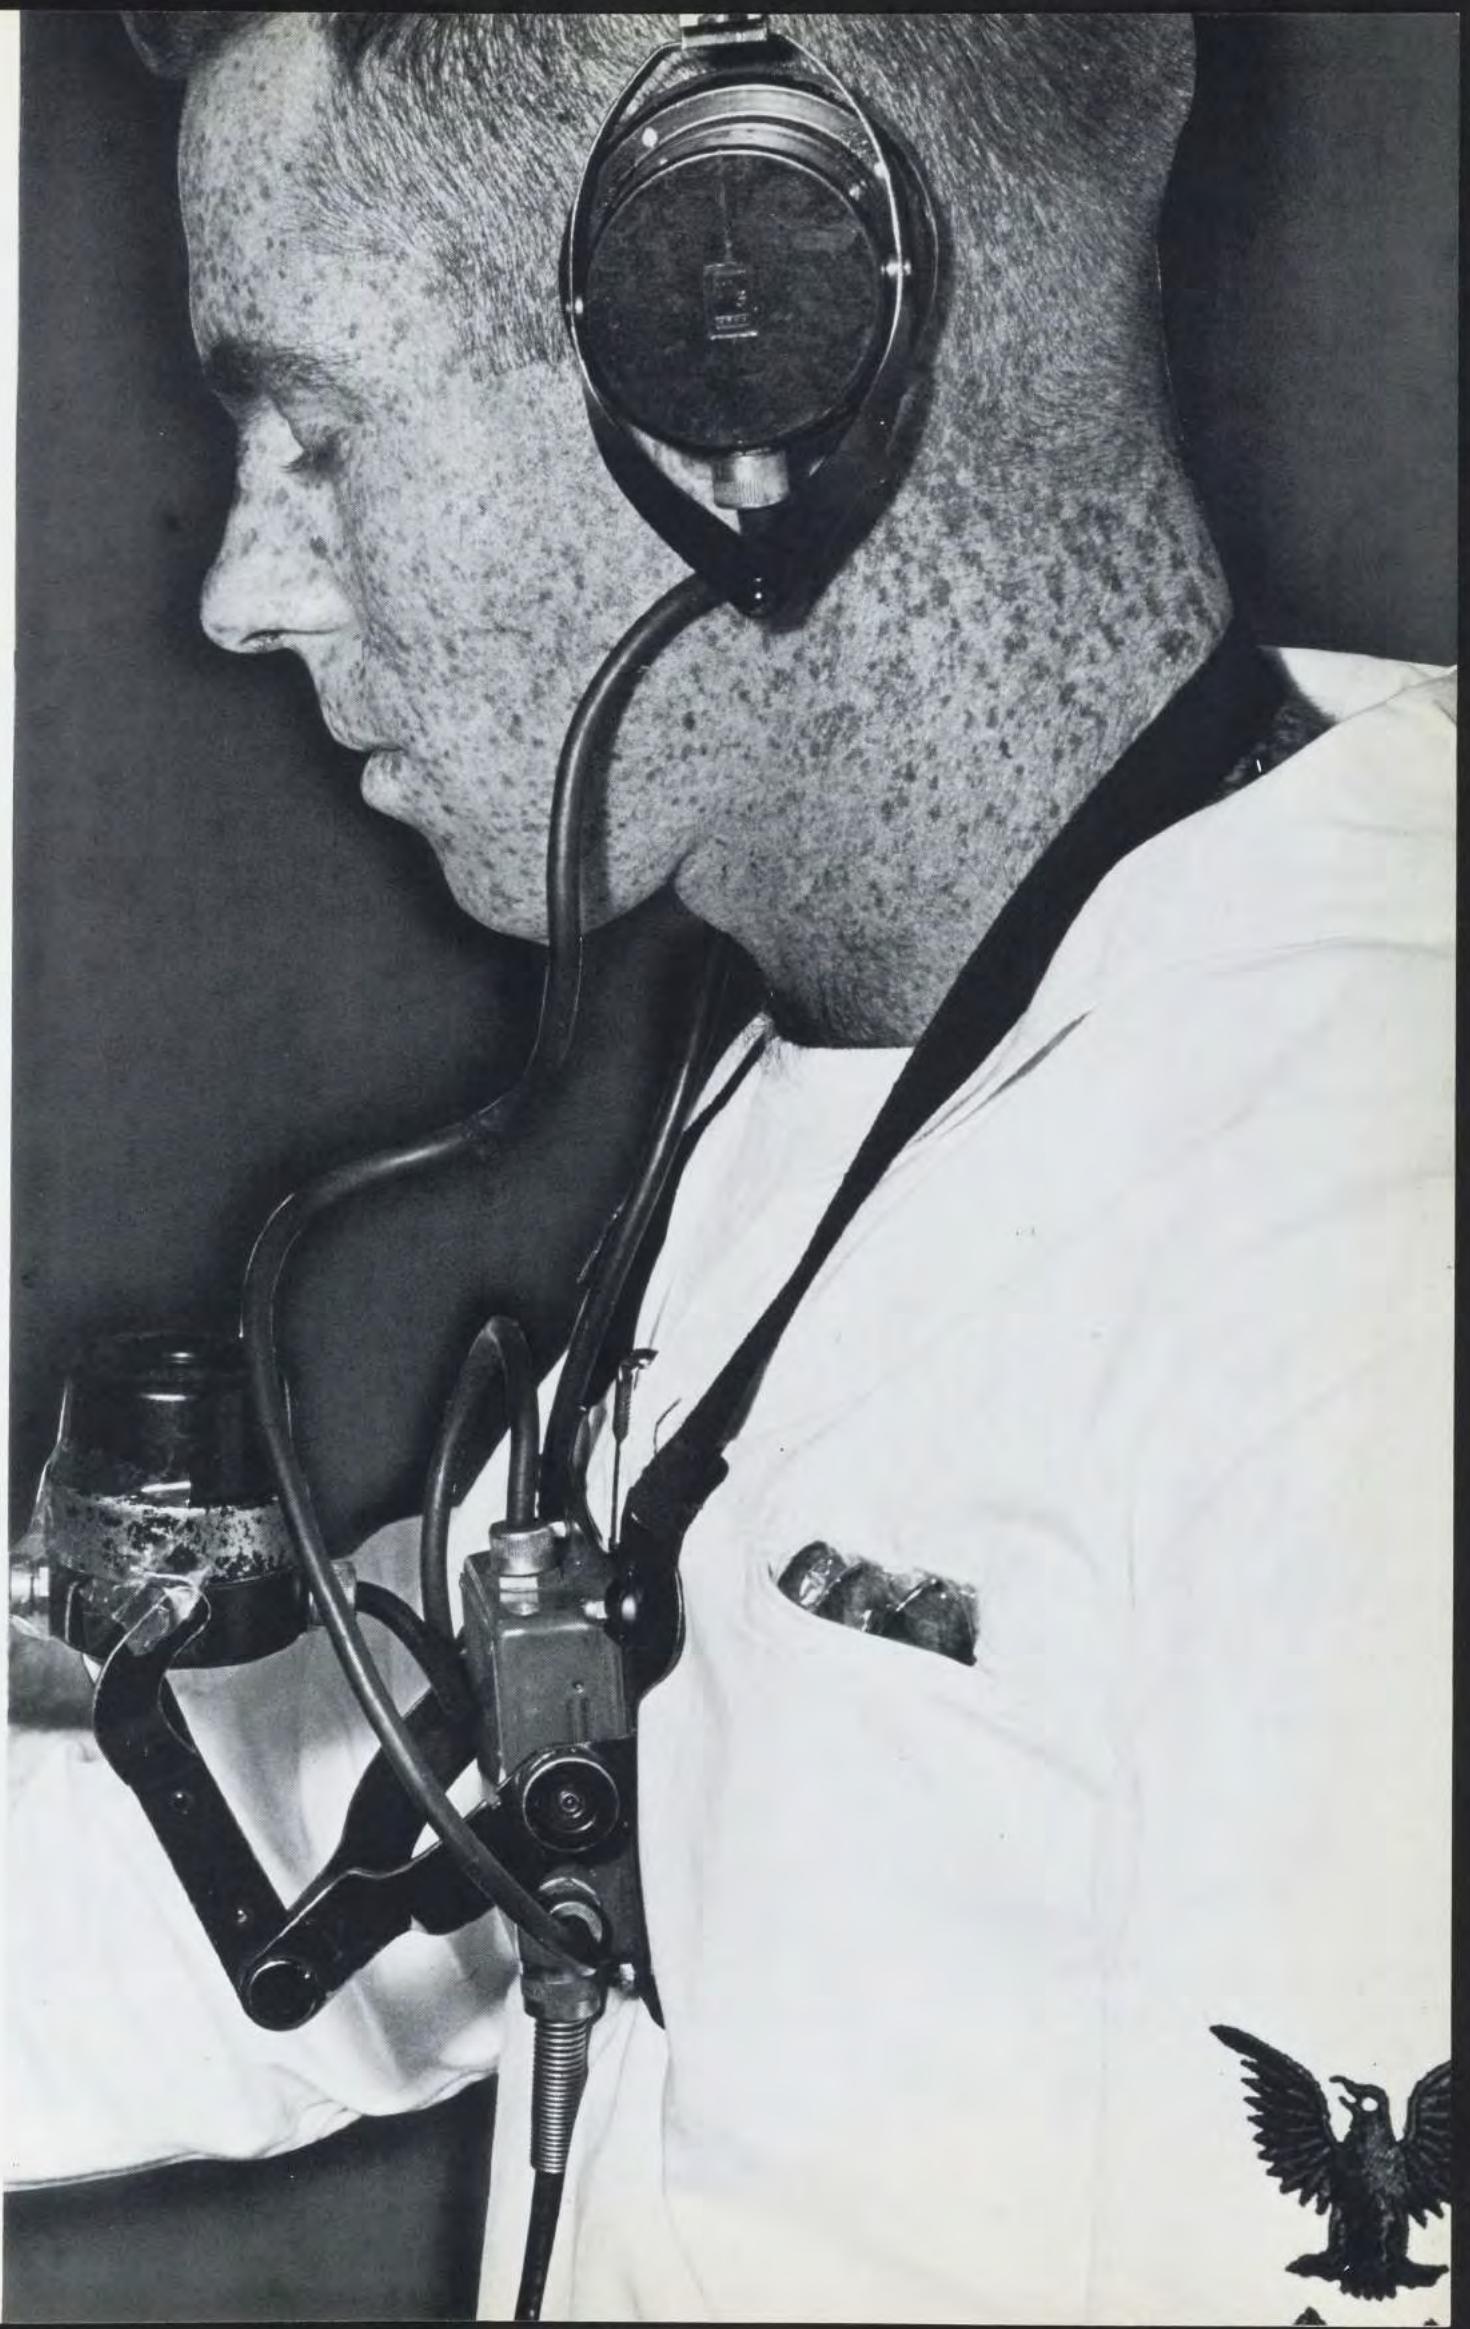

As G. Q. is sounded, 3000 men race for battle stations.

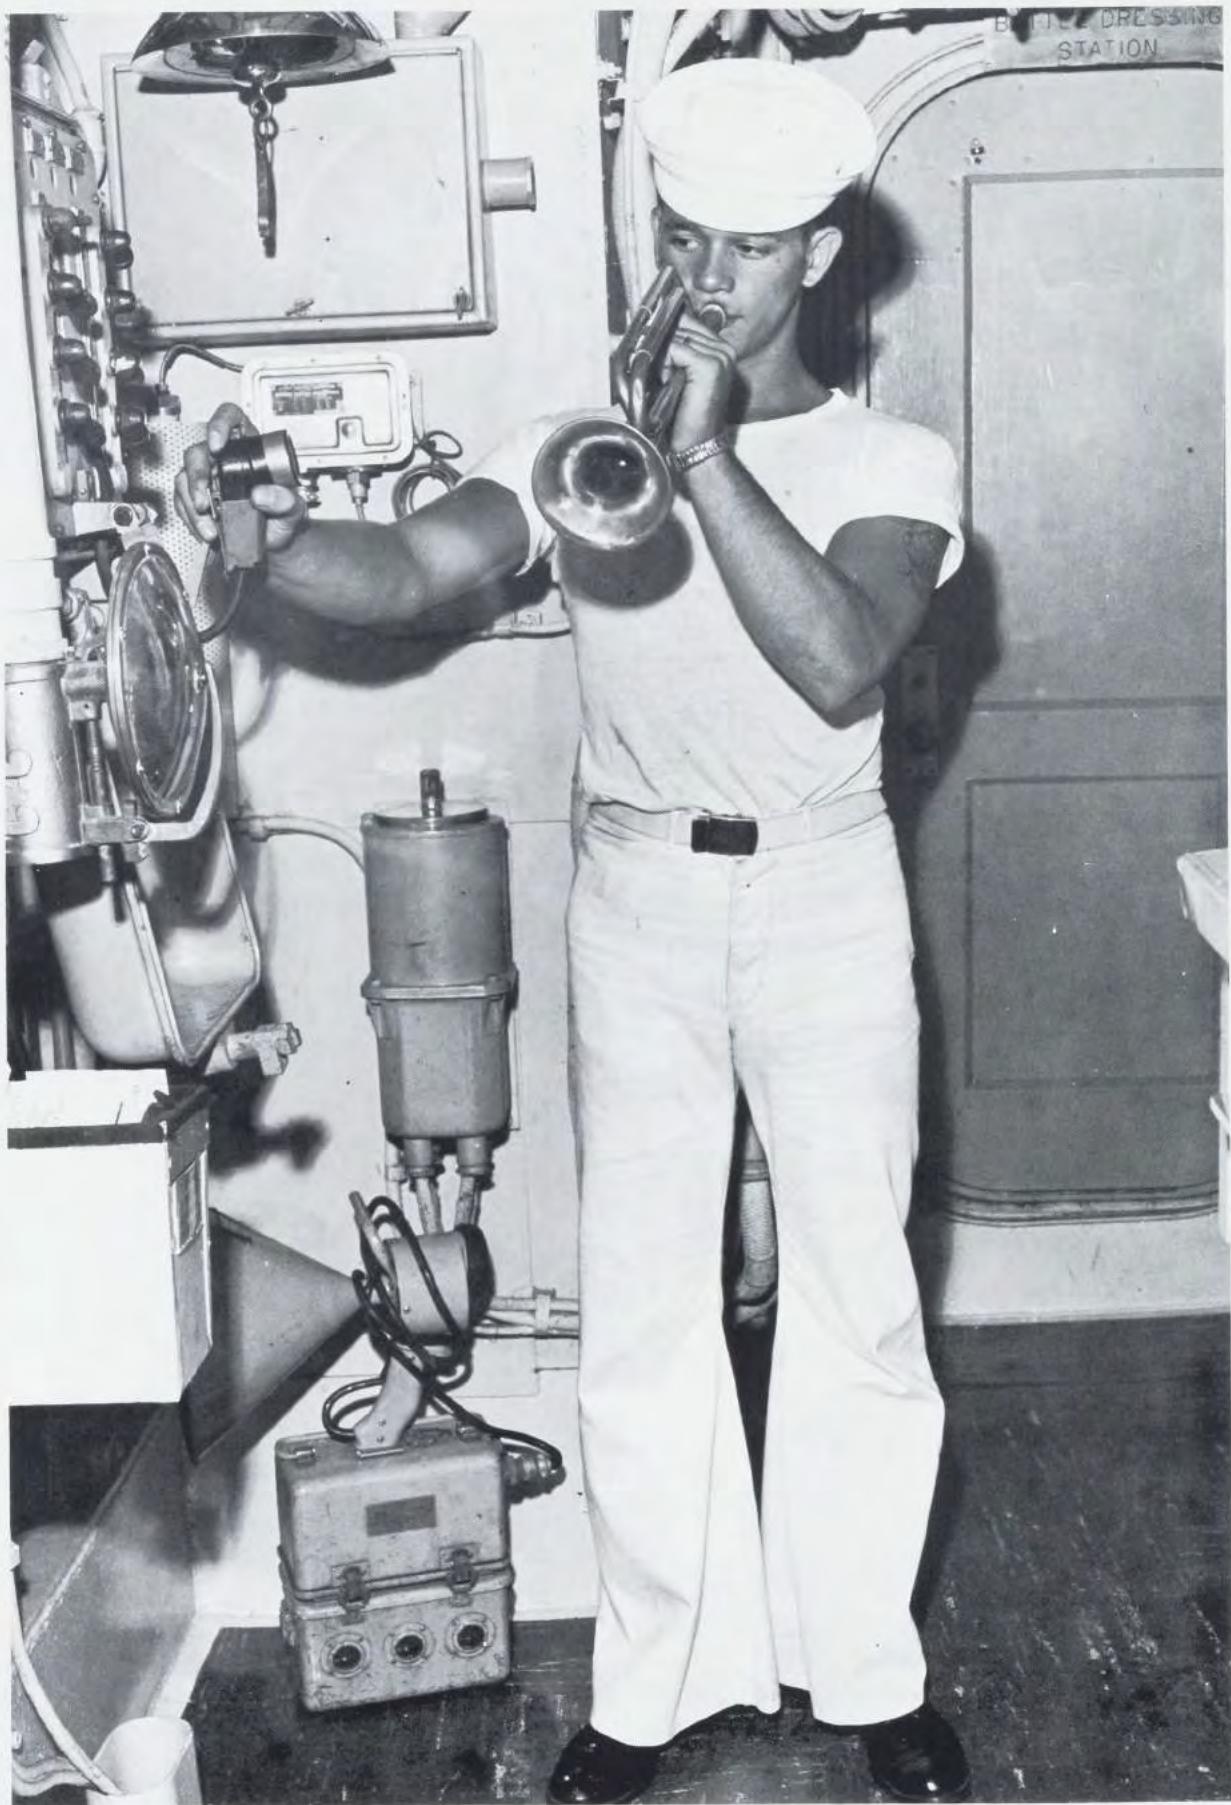

*Our self-contained instruments for detection, location, identification and destruction are readied for action,
tied together by hundreds of sound powered telephones.*

Damage control parties stand by, sharp eyes scan radar scopes, the five inch guns turn skyward and a jet screams down the catapult.

One-half of the long range striking power of the mighty Sixth Fleet and a large share of its defensive power, as well, are concentrated here, instantly available for any emergency.

*Practice? Yes today it's only practice . . .
but who can know tomorrow?*

CHOW

*Intrepid chow is famed throughout the seven seas
for its quantity, as well as its quality.
During our six month deployment we each consumed
344 eggs, 63 pounds of beef, 20 pounds of chicken, 146 pounds of potatoes, 270 pounds of bread and pastry, and 58 gallons of coffee.*

Over 1/2 million dollars was spent in providing the 1-1/2 million meals that were loaded aboard, prepared, and served by the men of the Intrepid.

*Chow is an all hands evolution,
from Freddy, the Captain's steward, to the newest seaman recruit,
who makes the division coffee with "sea water."*

Three squares on the way...

By land they came

....and by sea (even on Sunday!)

*No one is forgotten
....officers, NATO officers, crew....*

Chiefs...

....even birthdays.

Chow just like Mother used to make....

.....but strictly "Navy" coffee

....and gedunk.

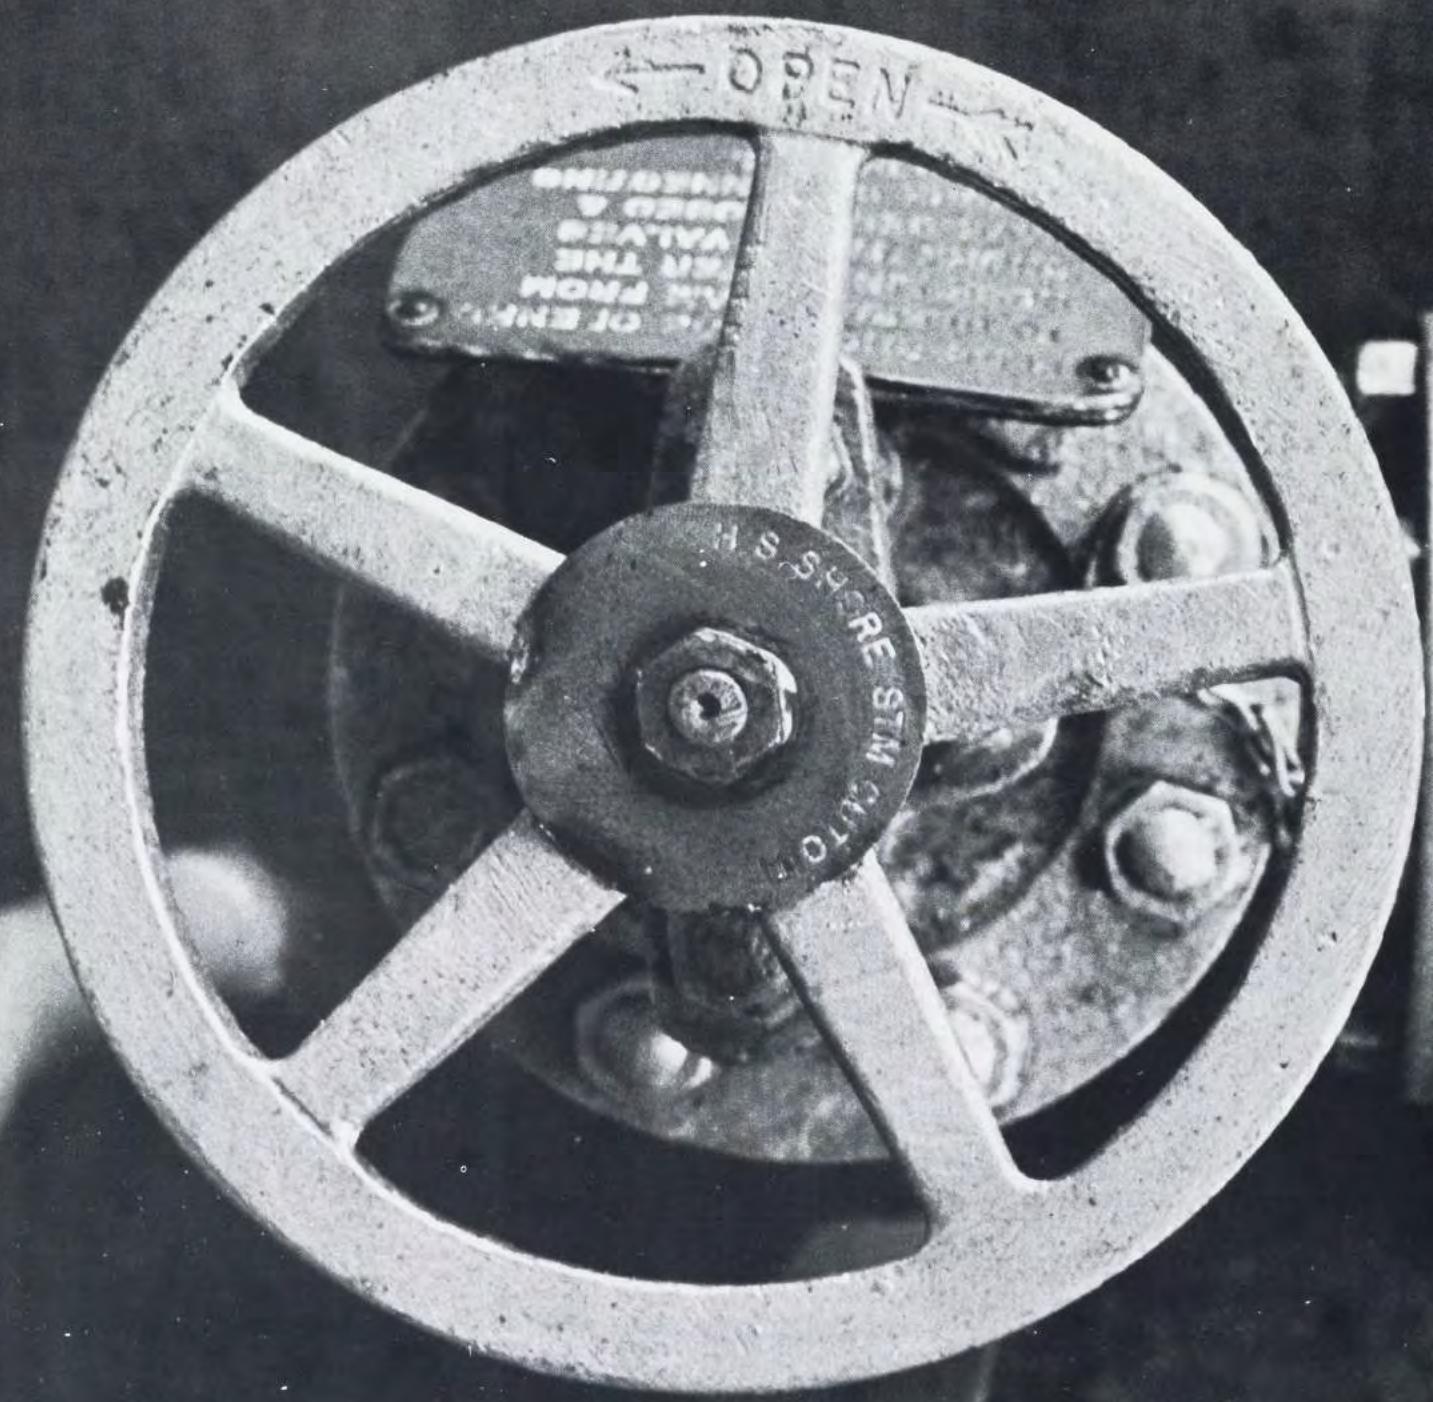

REFUELING

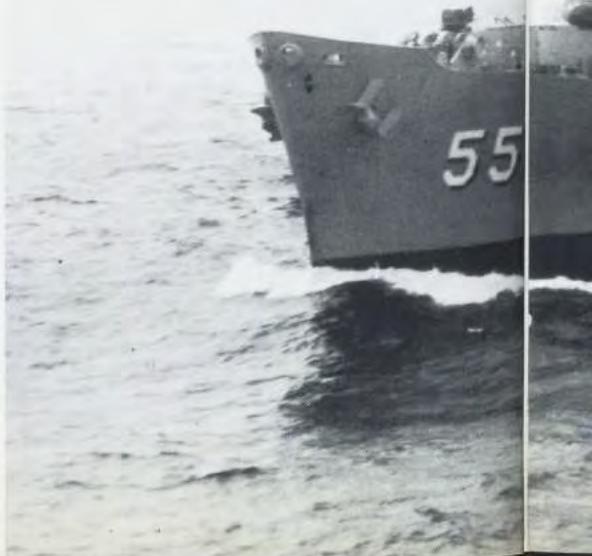

*In order to be a mobile base for aircraft, a carrier must have the ability to sustain herself for indefinite periods of time.
Our sea legs are extended by the ships of the service force, who refuel and replenish us at sea.*

Black oil, fresh Vegetables, and mail from the states are but a few of the items transferred on the high seas to refuel our engines, our stomachs and our morale.

The tanker approaches, a whistle blows and the first line is shot over.

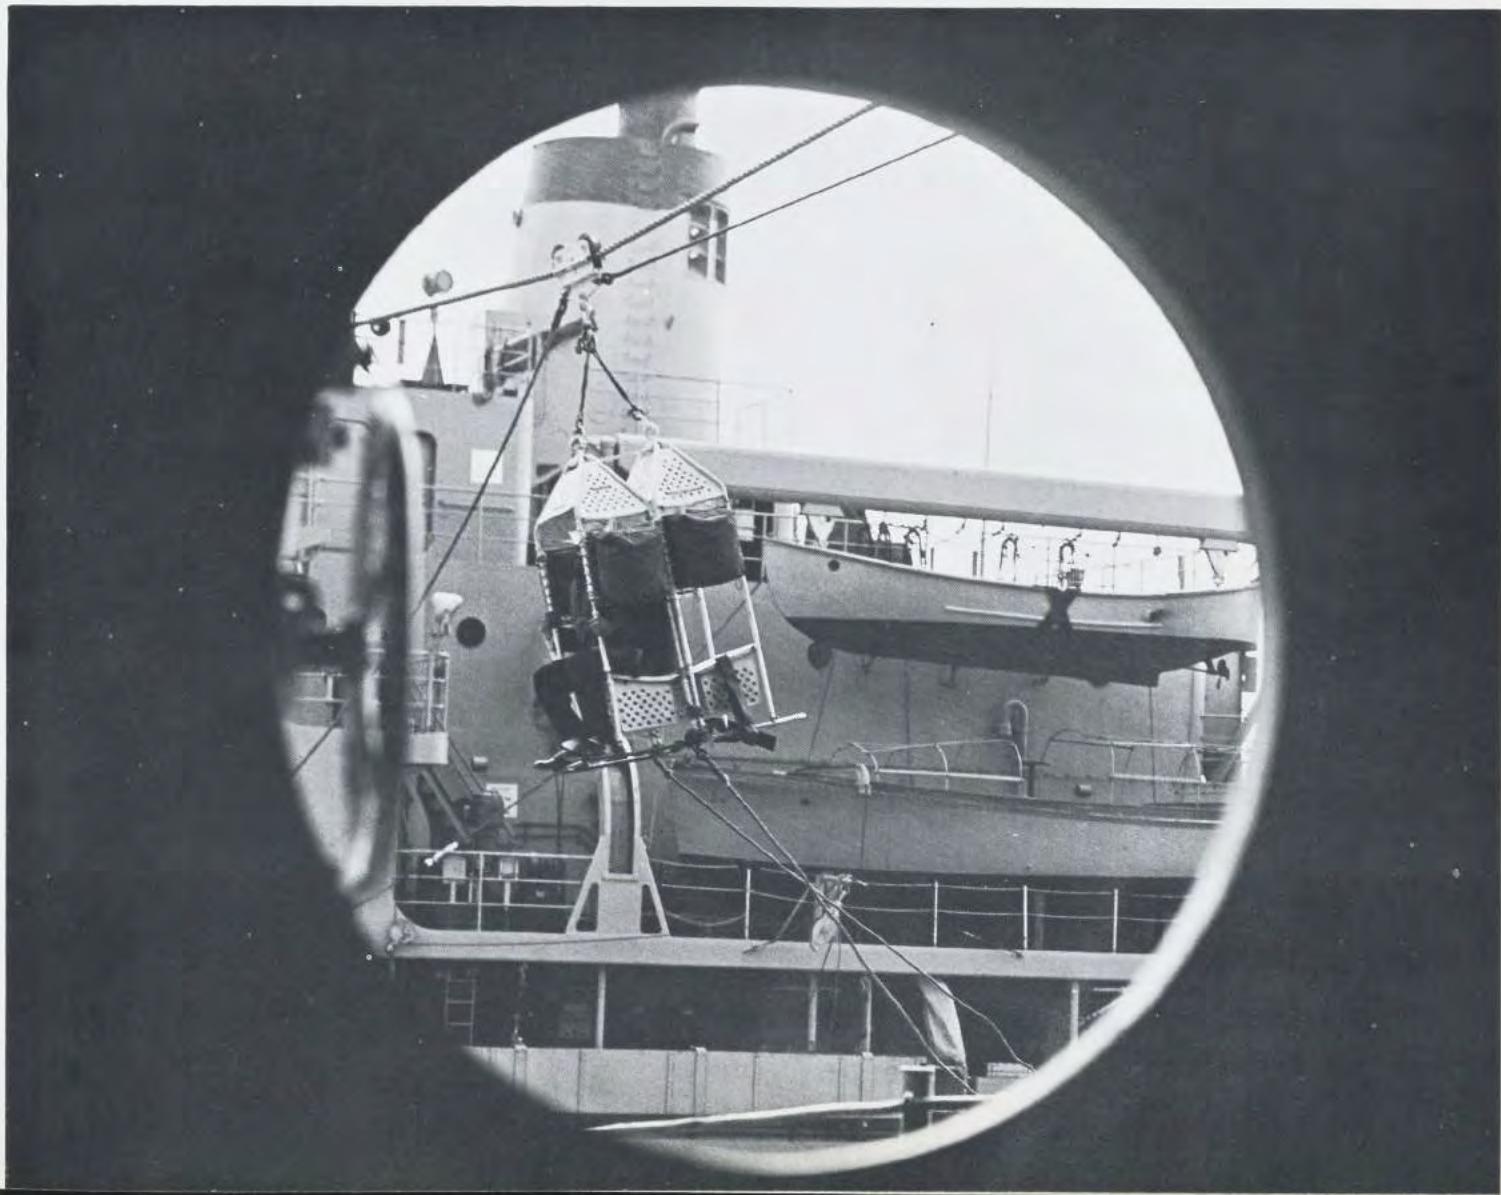

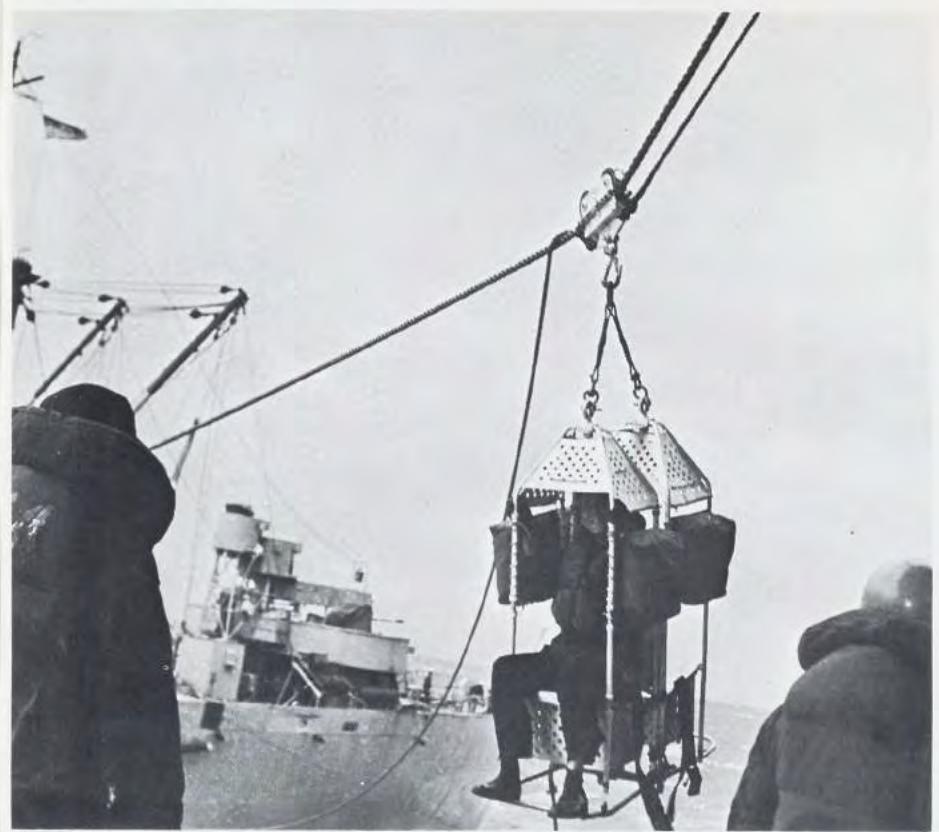

The tanker and carrier are "hooked up"

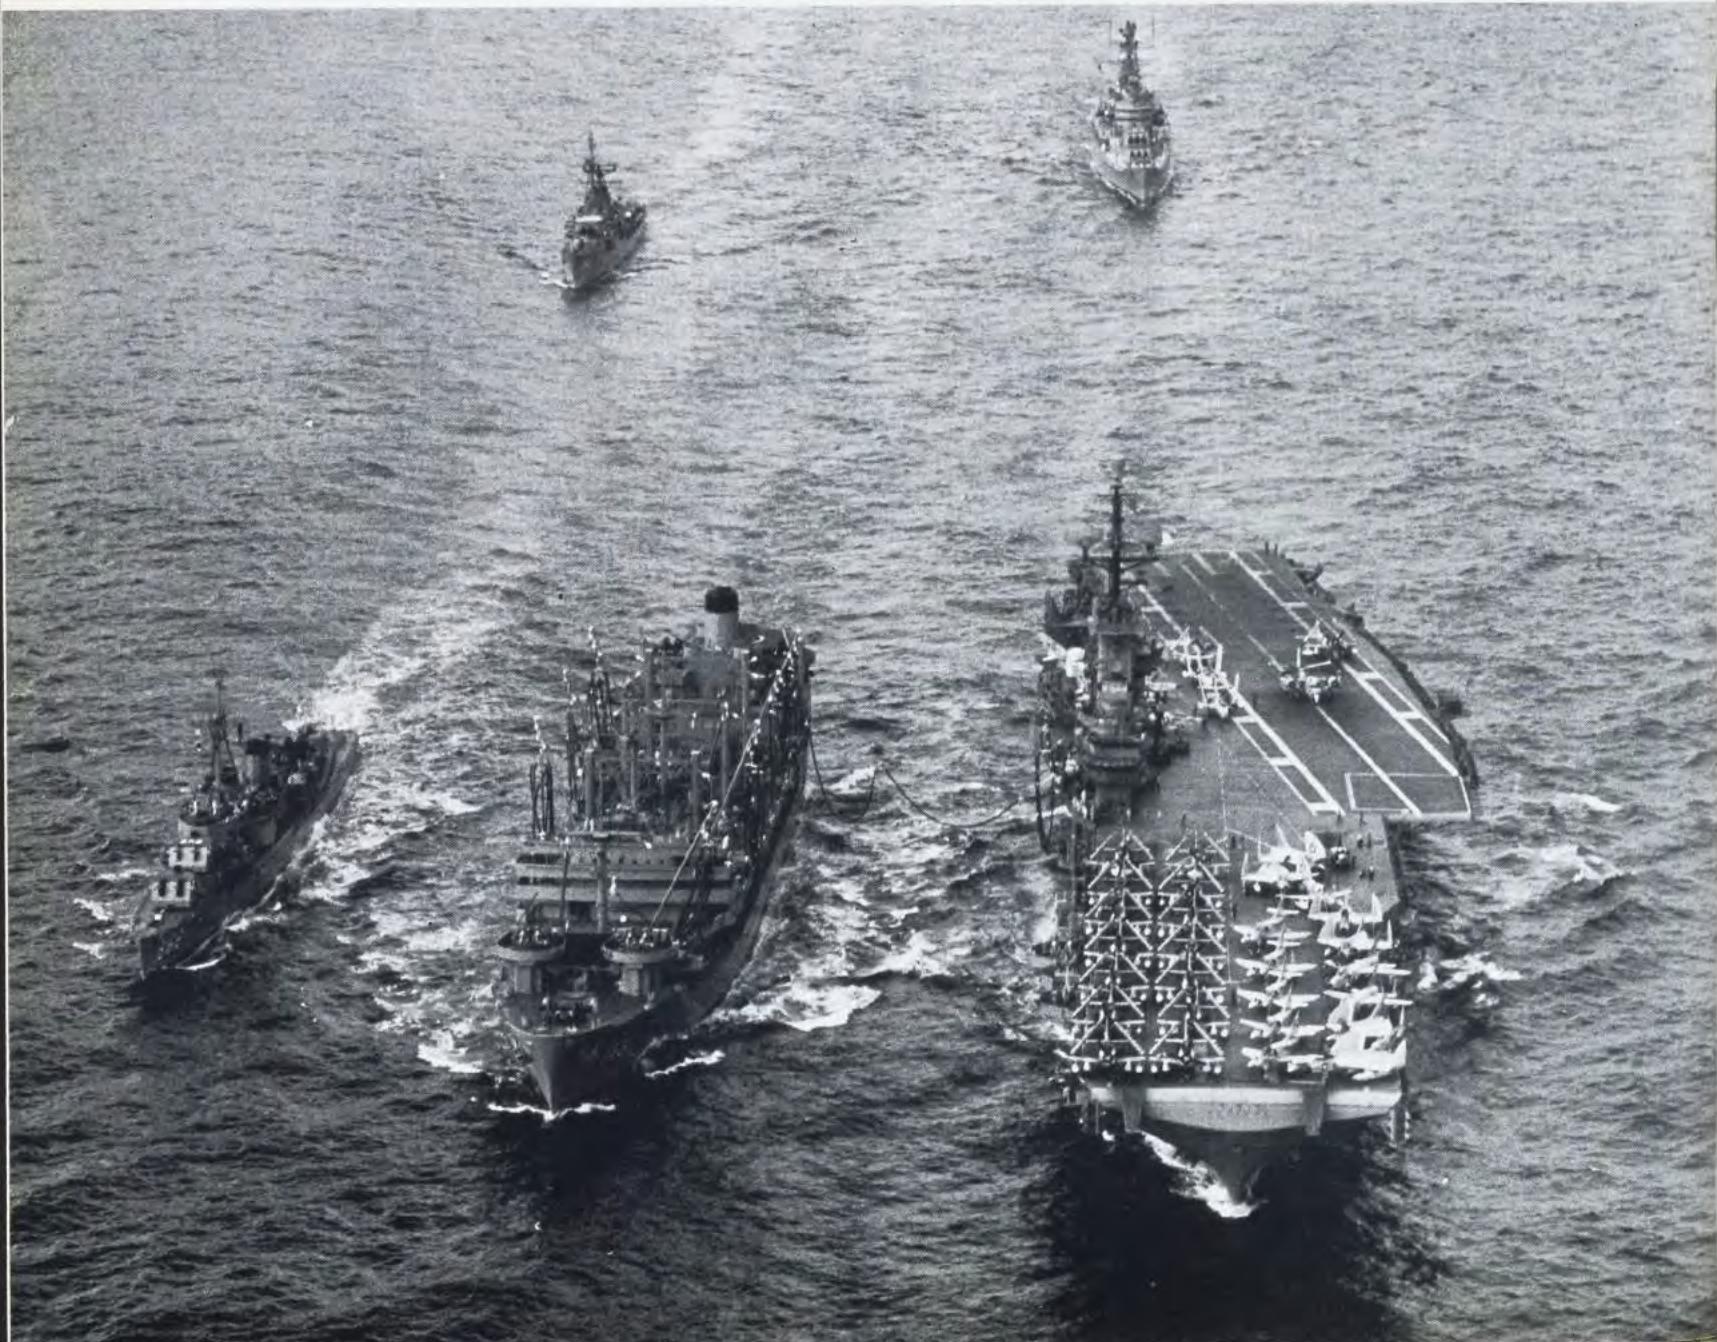

.... by fuel lines, sound powered phones and highlines.

Destroyers come and go,

while we have a long drink

Make 25 Knots...

*... All lines clear-

secure from refueling*

AIR OPERATIONS

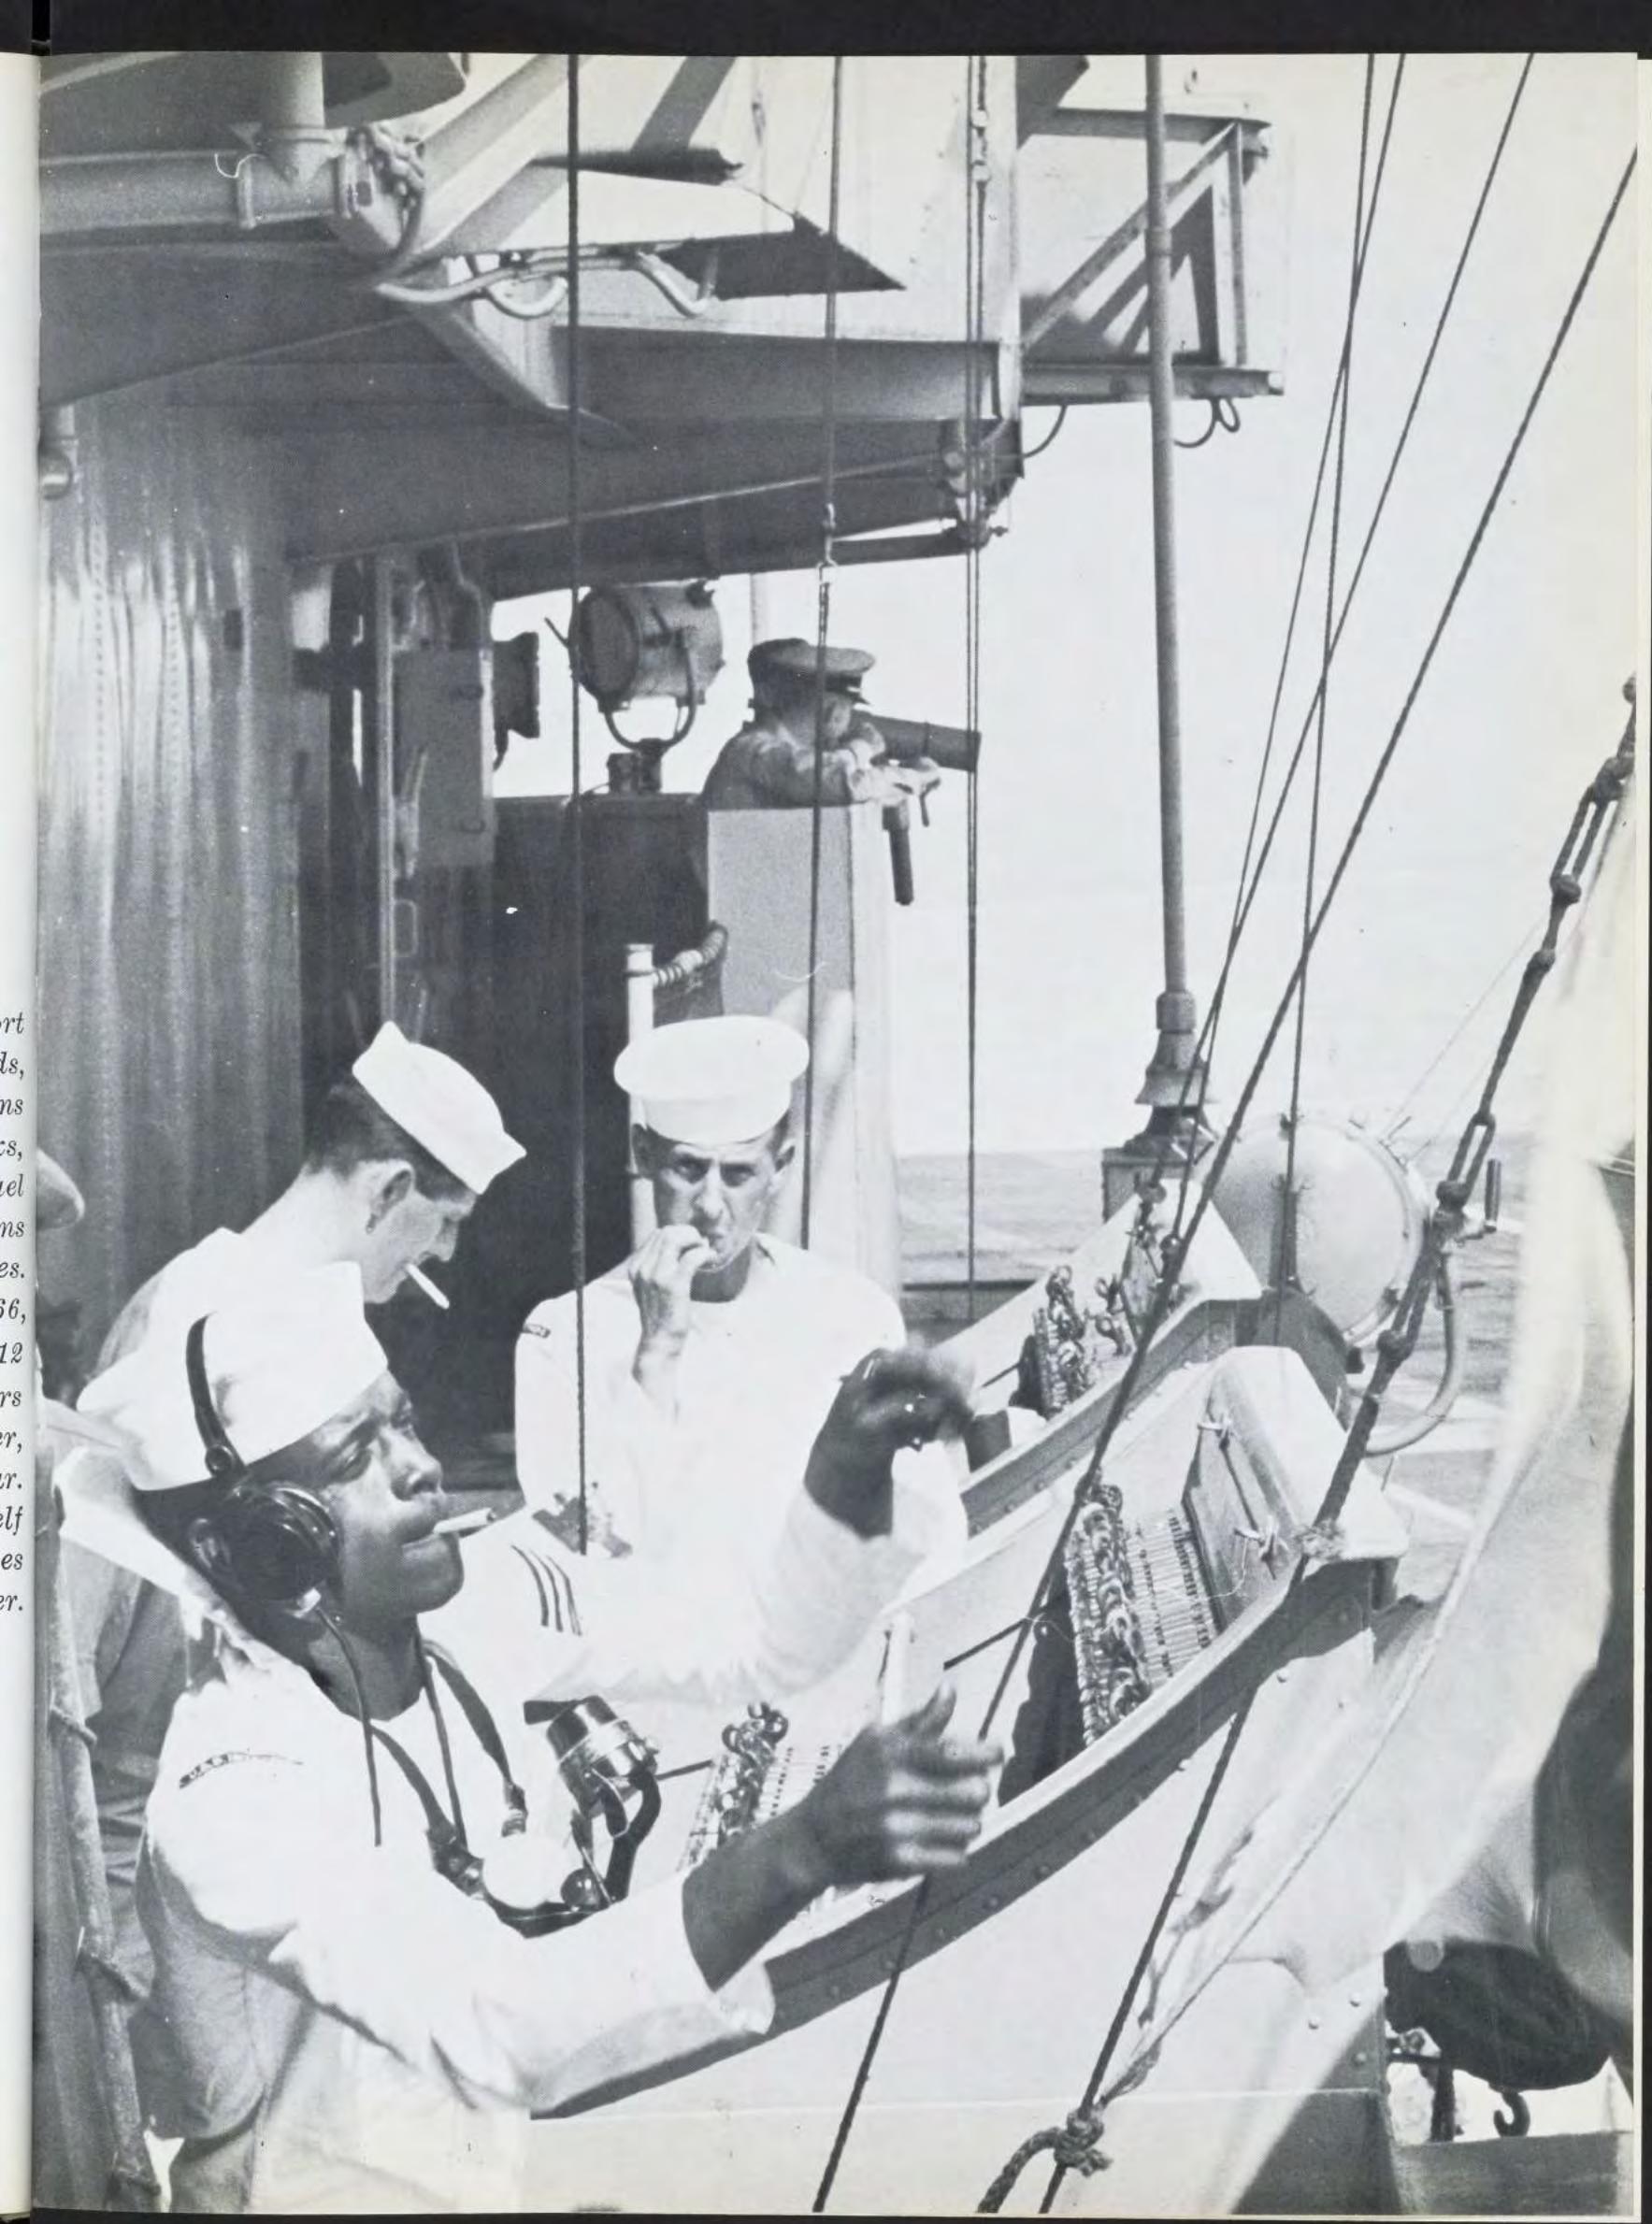

Offensive Mission

The success of air operations depends on a unified effort on the part of all embarked personnel. The engineers must maintain high speeds, the bridge must be particularly alert and CIC, AIR OPS, and Communications must give a reliable performance. On the hangar and flight decks, members of the air department handle the catapult and arresting gear, spot and refuel the aircraft and maintain the many repair shops, while the special weapons and missile units arm the planes.

CAG 6, the air group embarked, consists of VA-65, VA-66, VA-46, VF-33, VF-74, VFP-62 (DET 33), VAW-12 (DET 33), and VAAW-33 (DET 33). The officers and men of the air group fly and maintain the Skyraider, the Skyhawk, the Skyray, the Tiger, and the Cougar.

Each job is important within itself and as a means, contributes to the end, our mission as an attack aircraft carrier.

*Prior to flying a mission, pilots are briefed about
the areas they are to strike,
weather conditions,
task force disposition
and Atlas tower-button 10*

... and the ship stands by to recover. Perhaps a TF from the beach will land

... bringing mail and news from home.

Now standby to recover aircraft

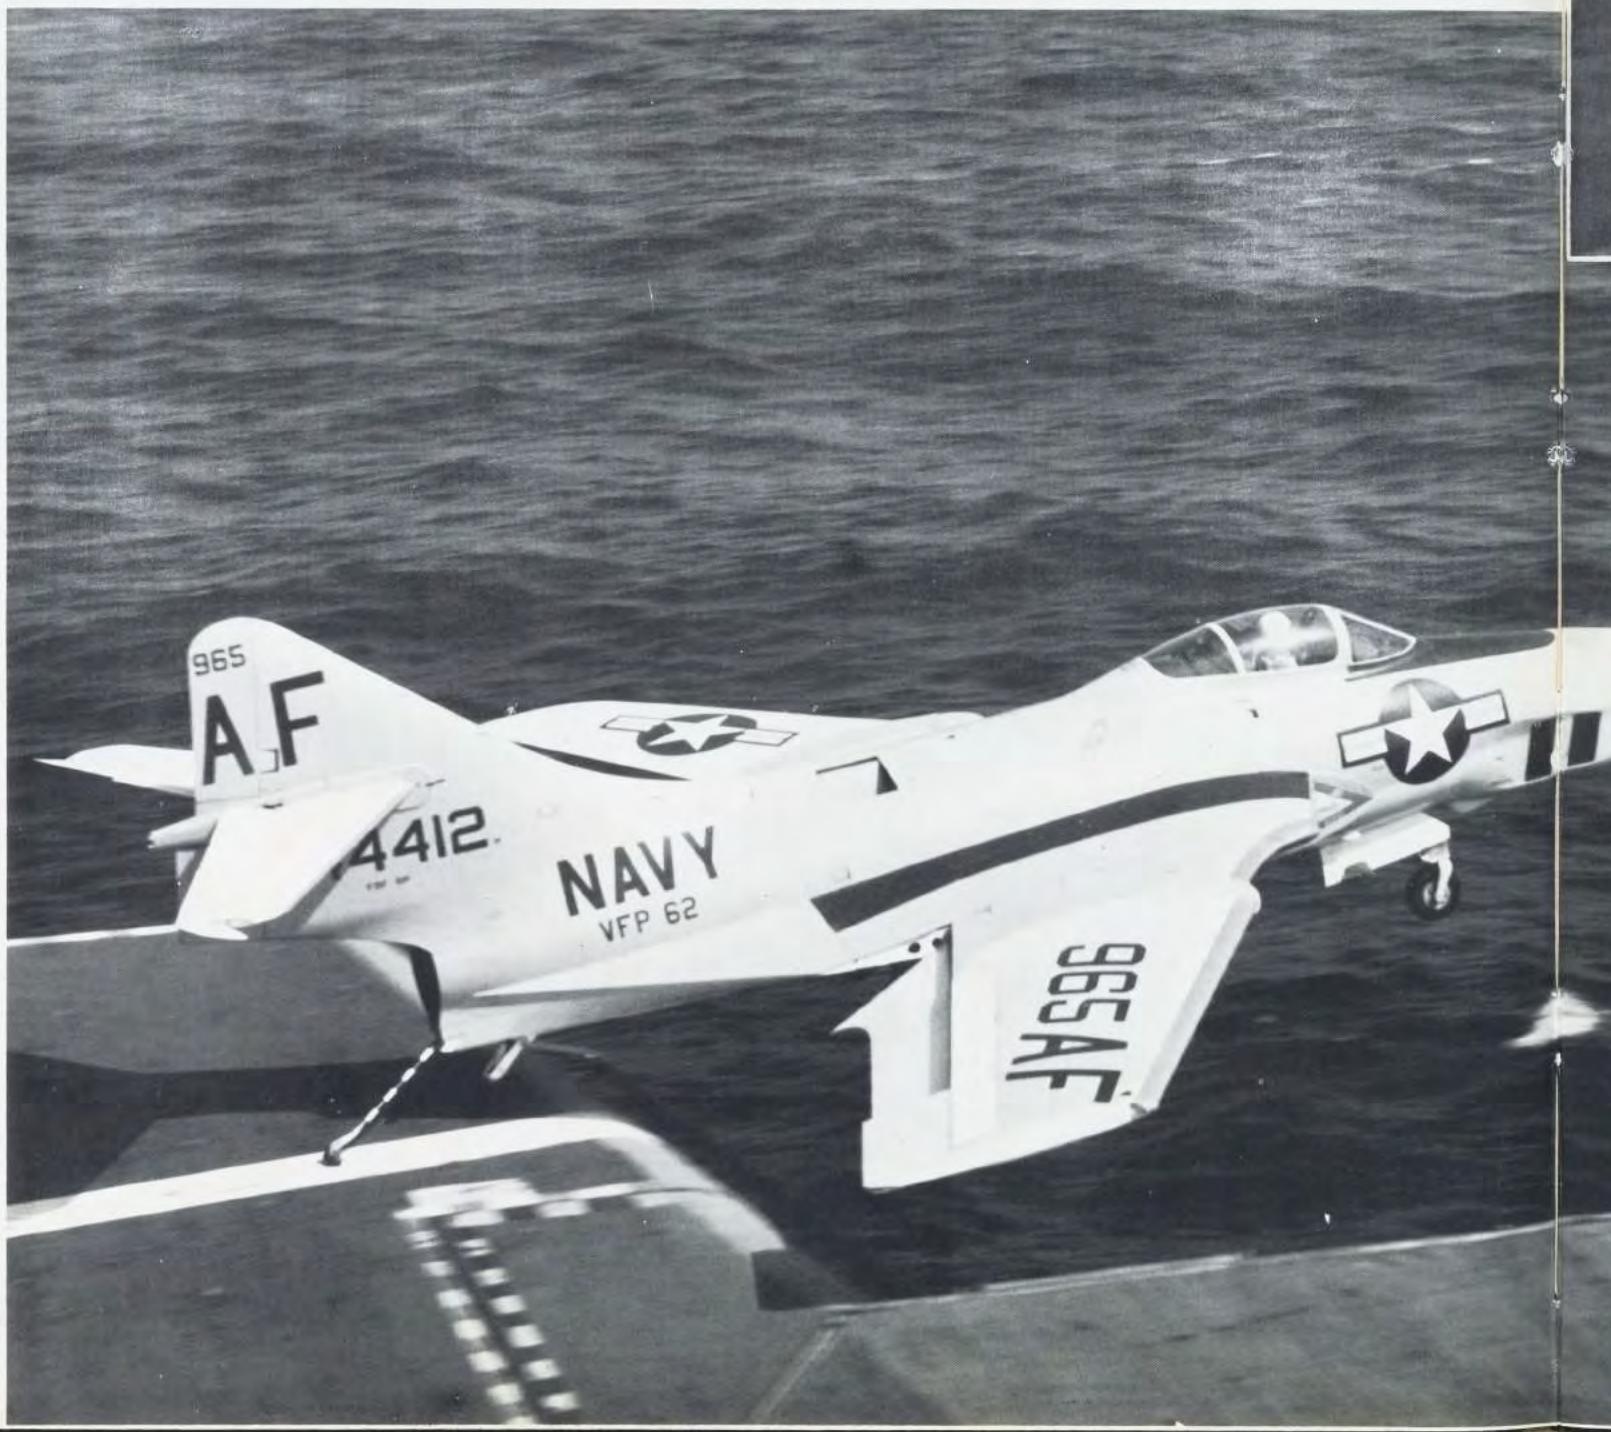

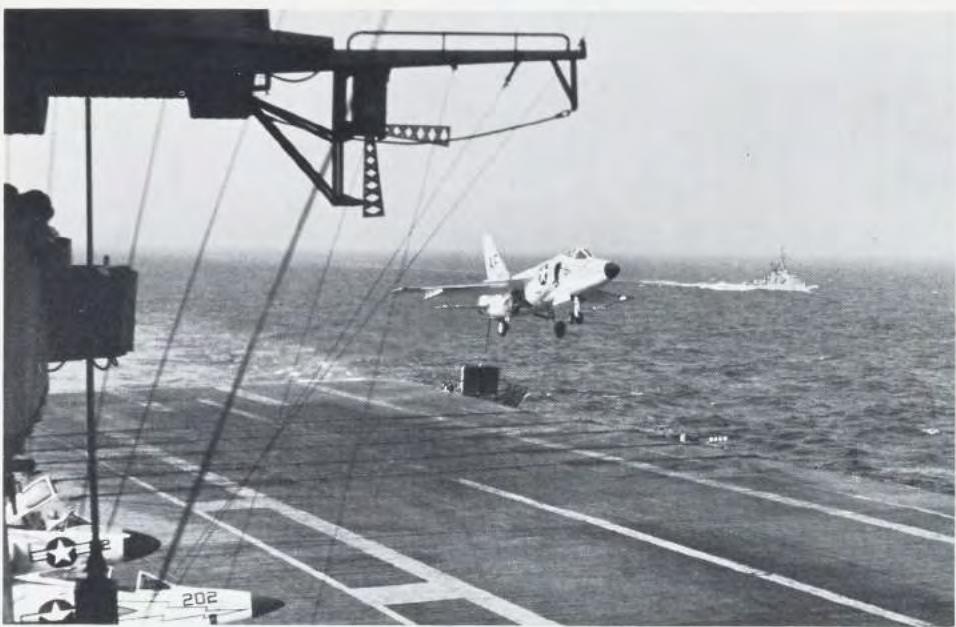

The LSO guides the aircraft to the deck

where the hook catches the arresting gear

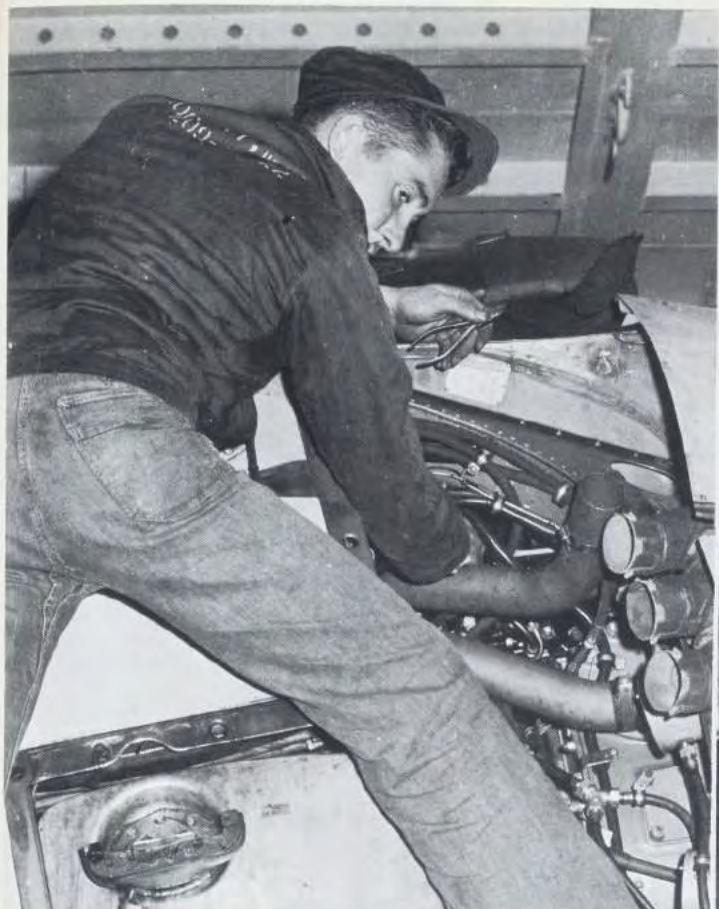

... or the plane gets a waveoff, to try again.

Once the aircraft are recovered, . . .

, the maintenance crew takes over to mend the wounds

.... or to refuel

l the birds for another launch.

IN PORT

THE SHIP IS ANCHORED . . .

with these words the Boatswain Mate of the Watch announces that Intrepid is again in port. Many pictures flash through many minds:

The Acropolis, a friendly beer, a shouting street vendor, a horse-drawn carriage, a sunny beach, a black bikini.

Liberty means new places, new people, and new customs. However . . .

The Sixth Fleet must be always ready, in port as at sea.

Each day one-half the crew remains on board to maintain this readiness; to repair machinery, to prepare food, to paint, to clean, to do the work that must be done before liberty is granted tomorrow.

To these men Intrepid becomes almost a port. Flight Deck sunbathing and movies add to the relaxed tempo that is so different from the hurried pace of operations at sea.

Thus it is that the final pages of this section depict life on board while anchored, life in the "Intrepid Port".

or the long awaited sights of Naples and Rome.

We joined the international set at Cannes on the Cote D'Azure, Gabor, guitars, and . . .

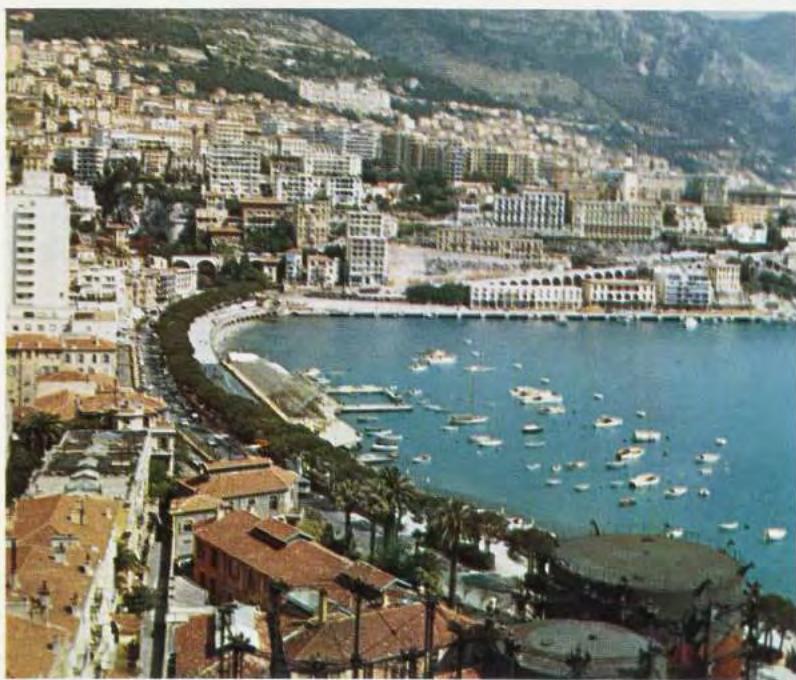

of course, girls.

Sometimes we struggled as tourists will,

or just relaxed, as natives are more apt to do . . .

enjoying souvenirs and dazzling scenery,

whether viewed on a sunny beach

or high in the peaceful

or in the magic of Cannes at night.

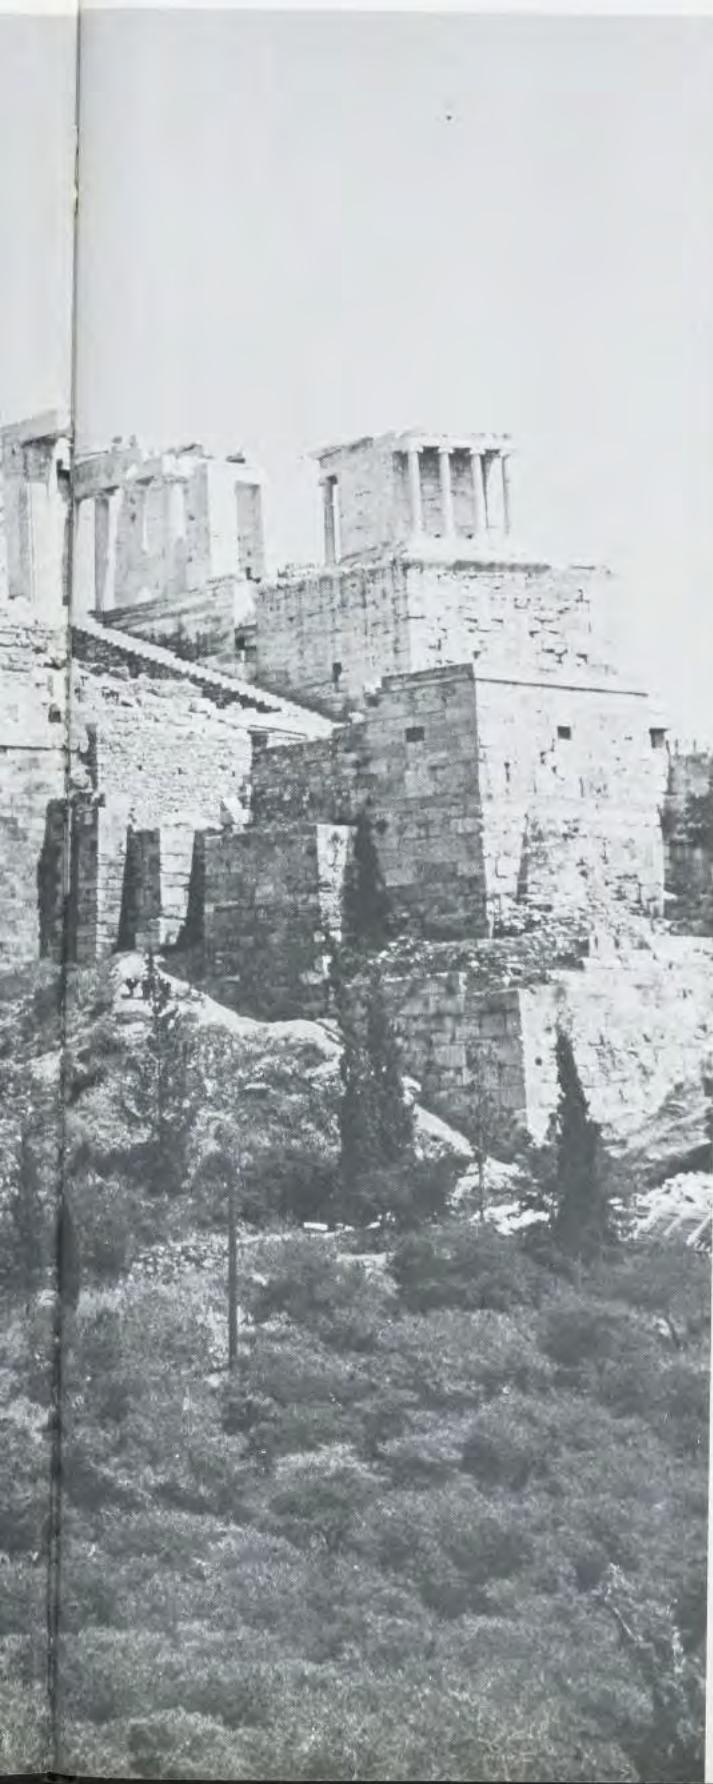

*Athens
glorious gateway to the ancient world . . .*

.... was Intrepid's next port.

*We dropped anchor
in her seaport at Piraeus, catching the first glimpse of distant wonders.....*

*....catching our first photos
of ruined columns and temples.....*

*.....the famed Acropolis on the hills
the empty but splendid Parthenon,
the dusty, sprawling city below.*

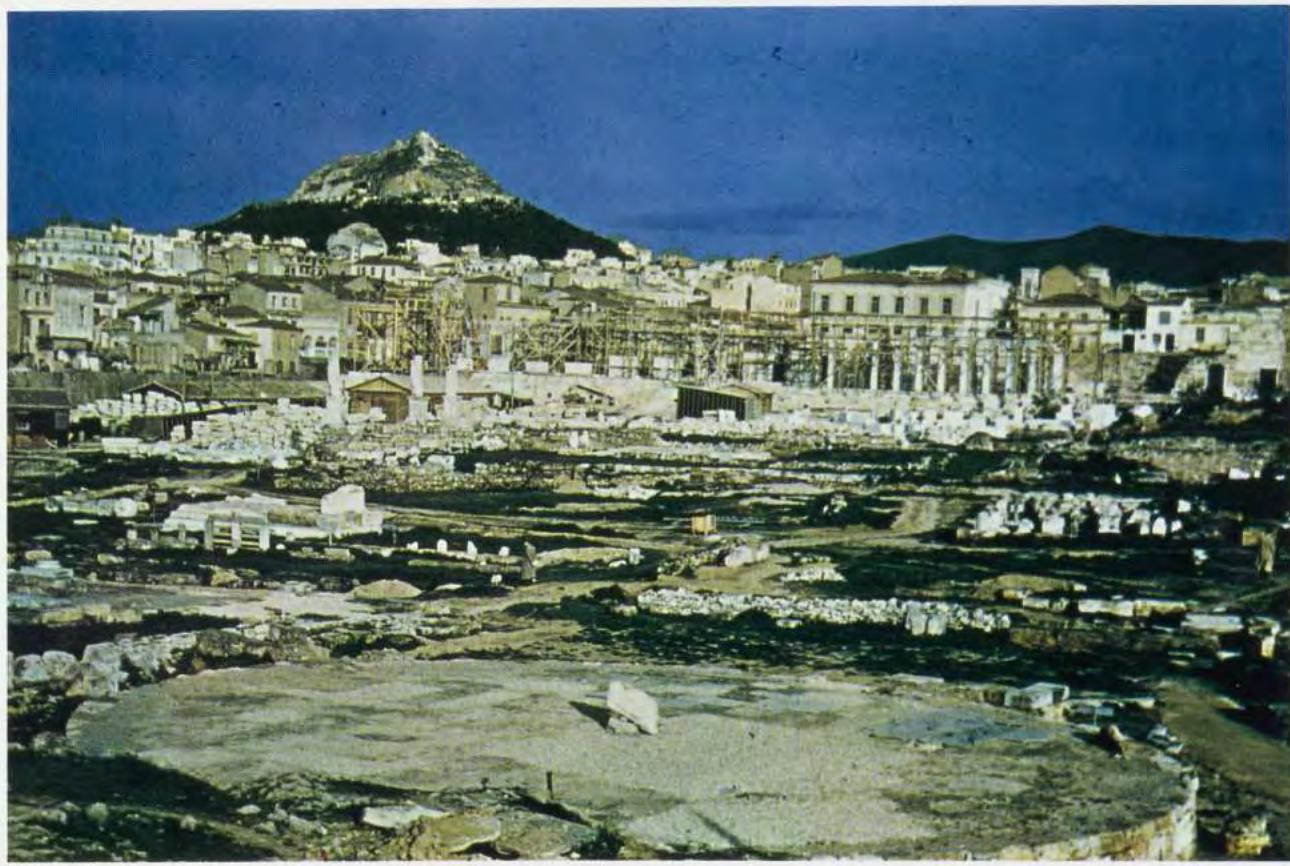

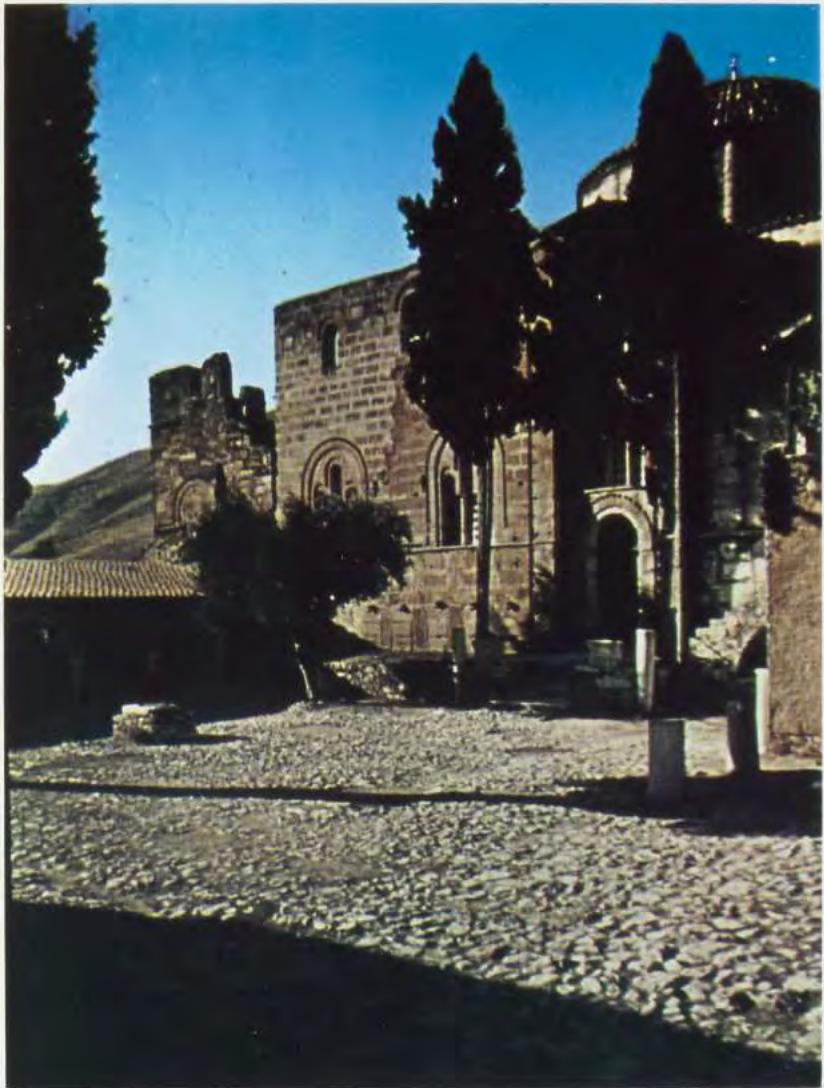

*And though our drachmas
were fast disappearing, we managed, somehow
to keep our sense of humor and . . . our head.*

*Athens
left us memories
.... of many souvenirs,
clever cab drivers,
and ancient arts.*

The liberty boat lands at Barcelona . . . soon to be acclaimed Intrepid's "best" port

*A city of cool beaches
and fountains,
an inevitable bikini or two . . .*

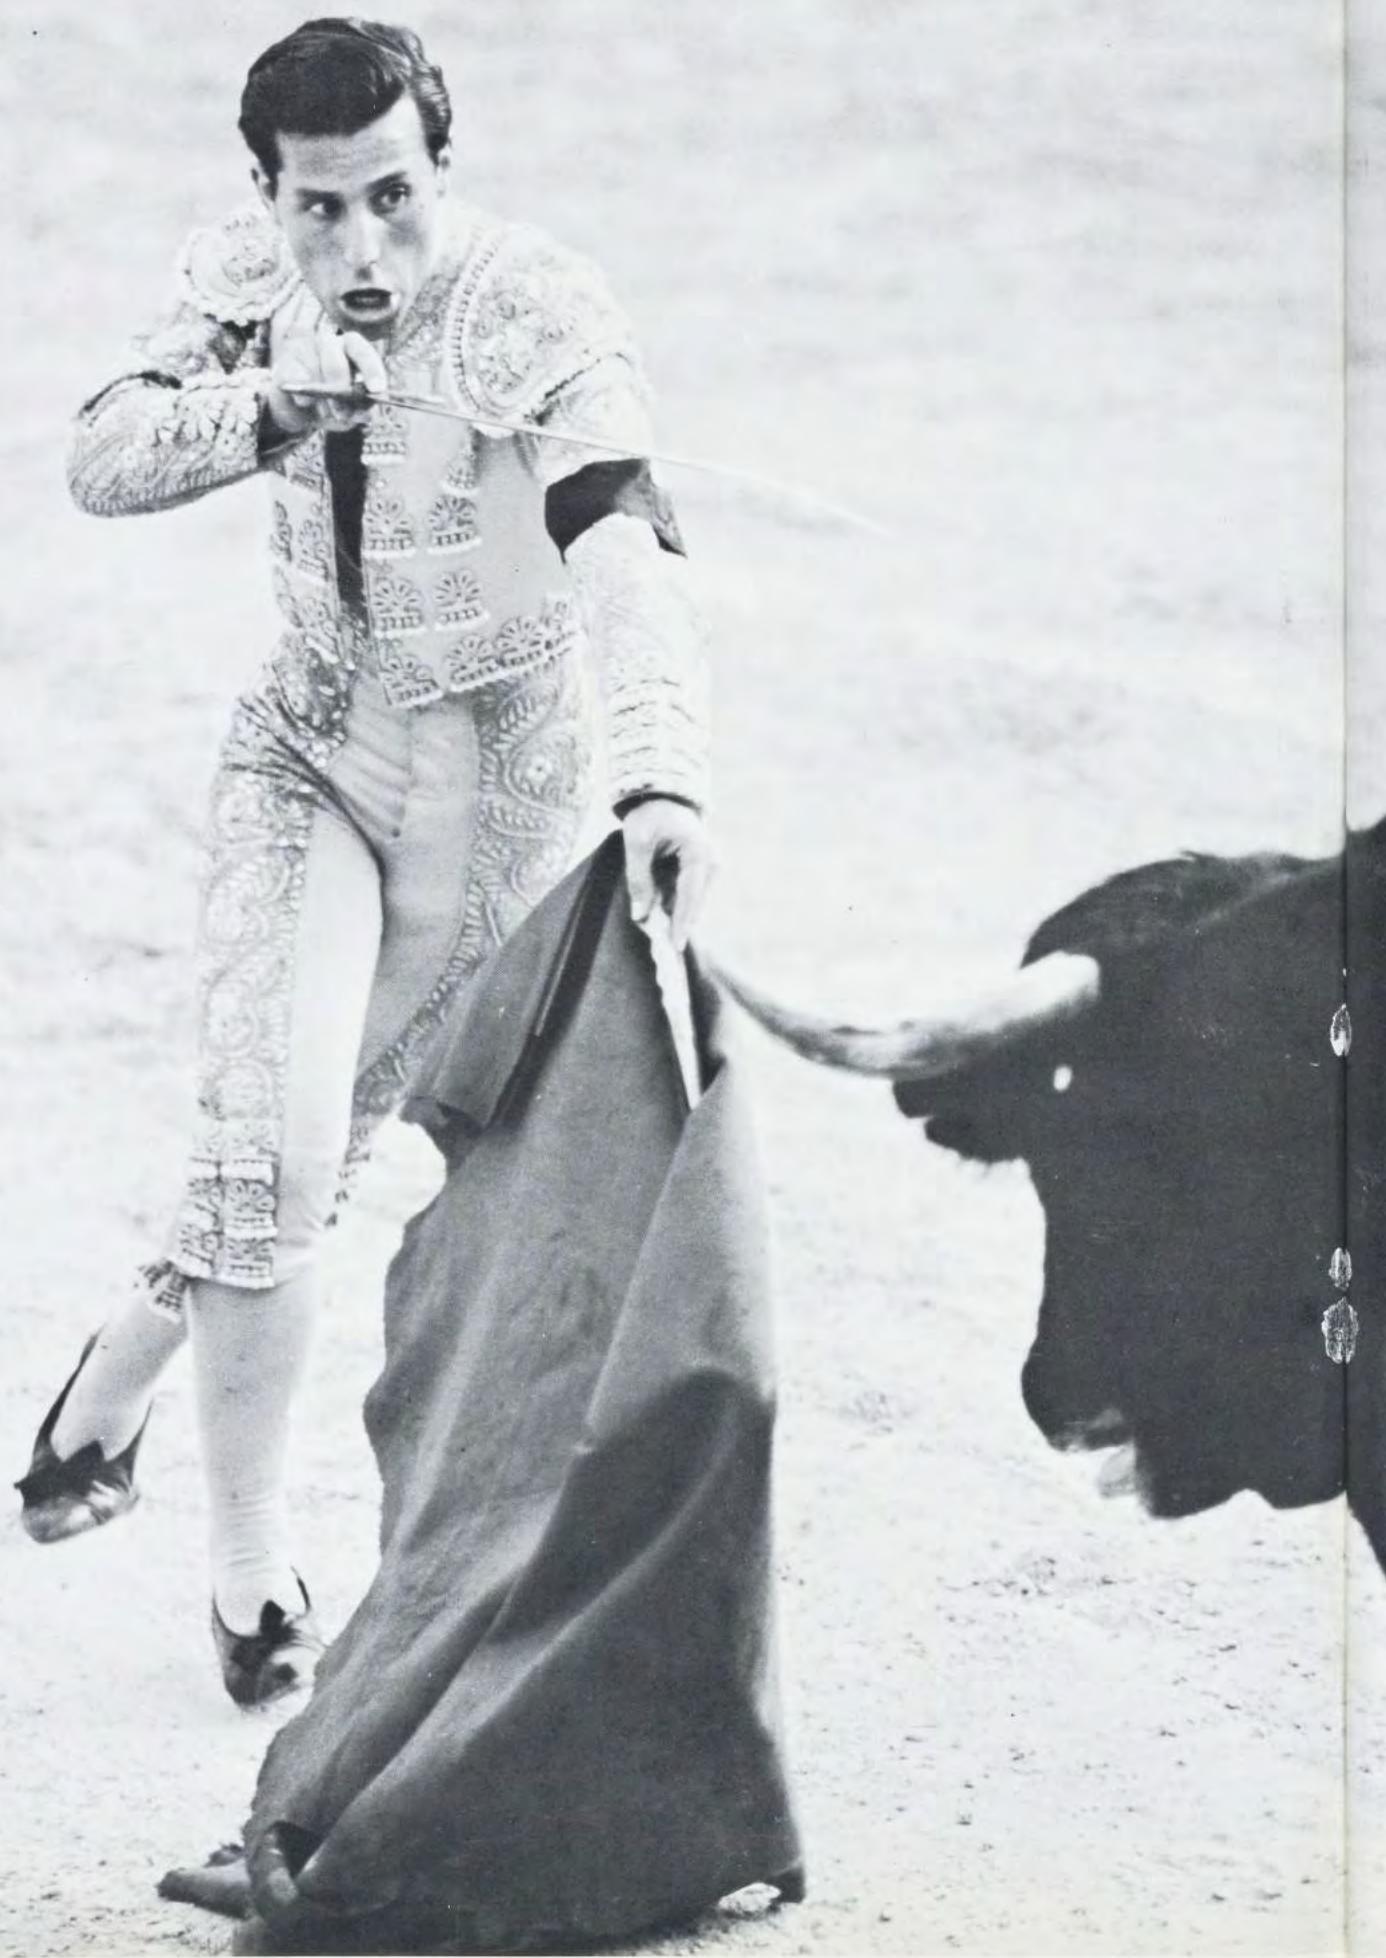

*....a city of intense and brilliant color,
in its parks and streets, in its sunlit flowers,
in its harbor and in, of course,
the never-to-be forgotten bull fights.....*

.....where we alternated our enthusiasm between the resplendent matador and his frustrated bull, which, inevitably.....

*...fell for the red cape trick.
Ah well, ole!*

On to Sicily and Palermo

Ferris wheels

*and showers of sparkling fireworks
made us feel at home.*

Cluttered shops in a July sun and carnival lights glittering in the hot evening against the darkened harbor....

....while gloomy catacombs and dim, crowded alleys reminded us.....

*....that all is not gaiety
on the sunny Mediterranean.*

*Up the jagged peninsula that is Italy
lies Leghorn Livorno,
a small seaport city with the delights of many tourist attractions within its reach*

Florence and Pisa, for example....

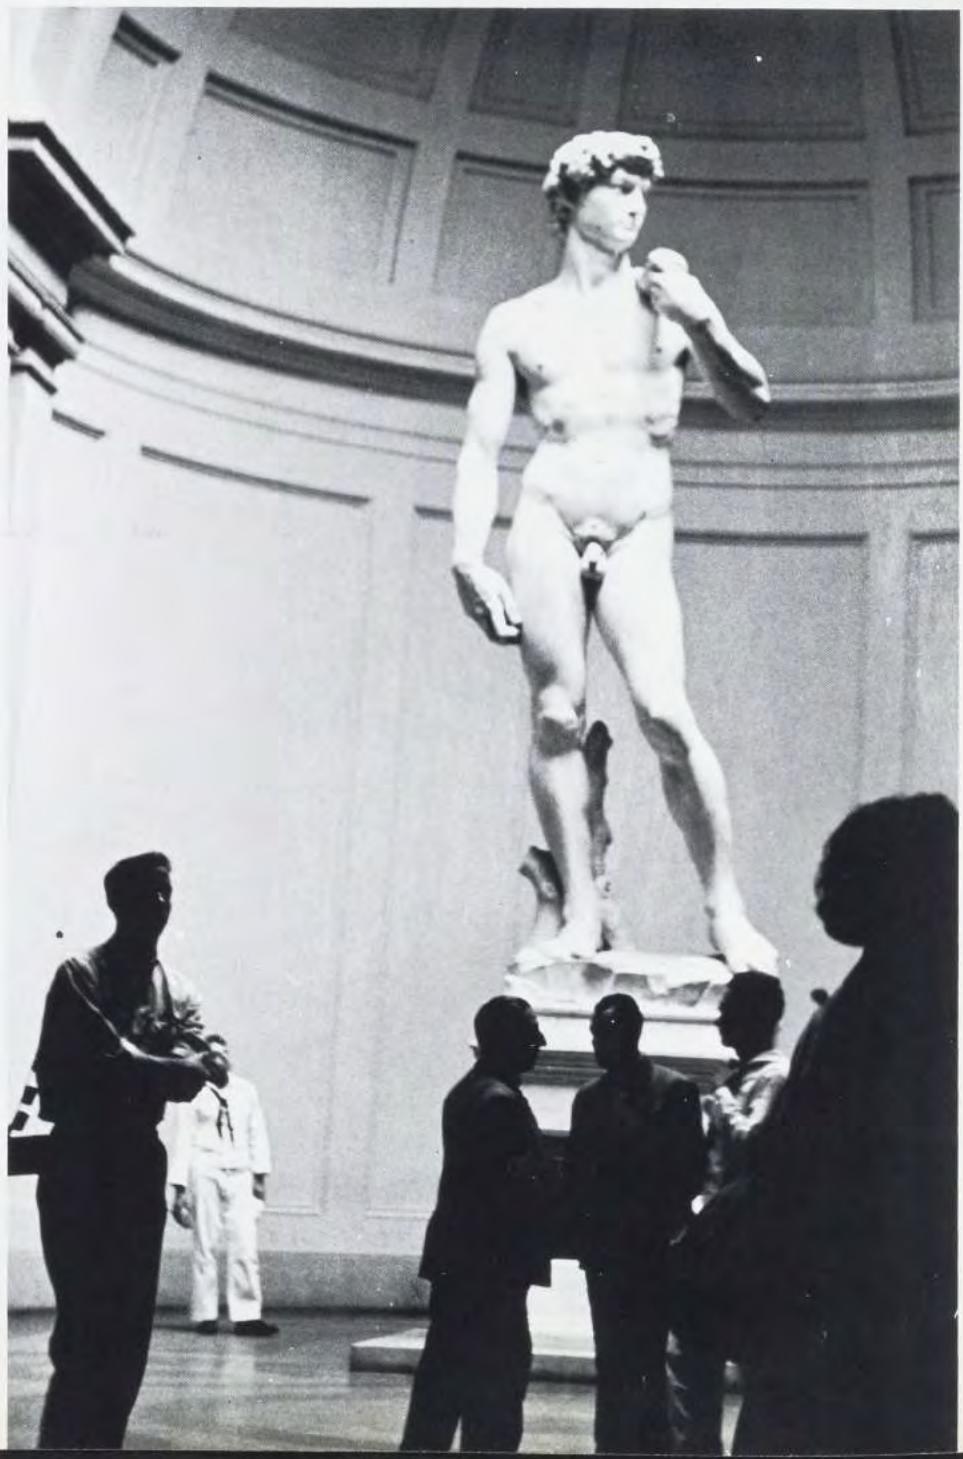

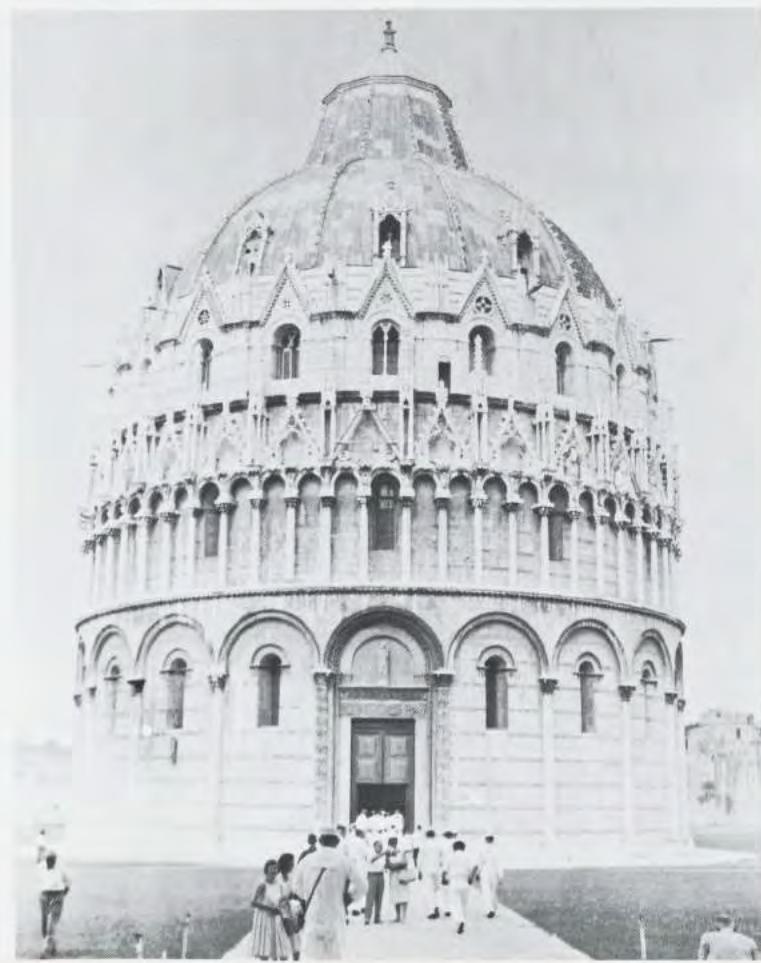

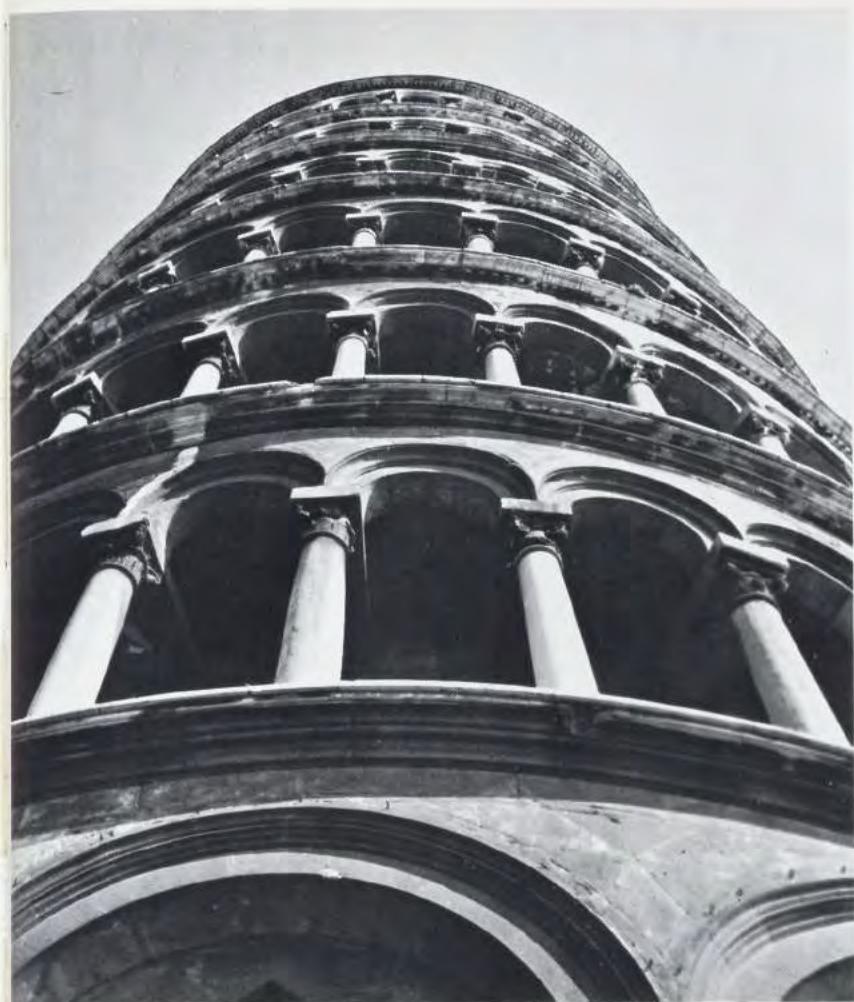

*....the Leaning Tower and its souvenir replicas,
the Arno, the Ponte Vecchio, a candlelit church...*

.... Italian art, famed through the centuries.

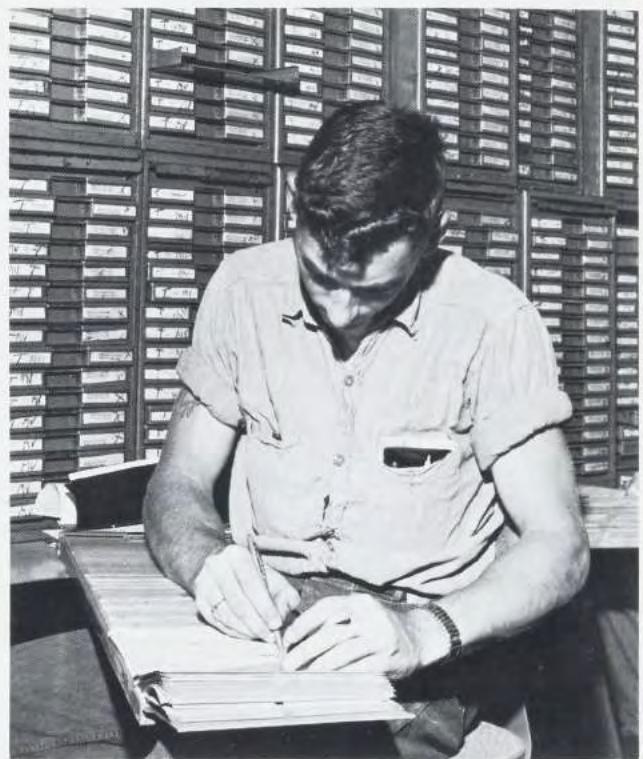

Lovely, captivating, beguiling Capri....

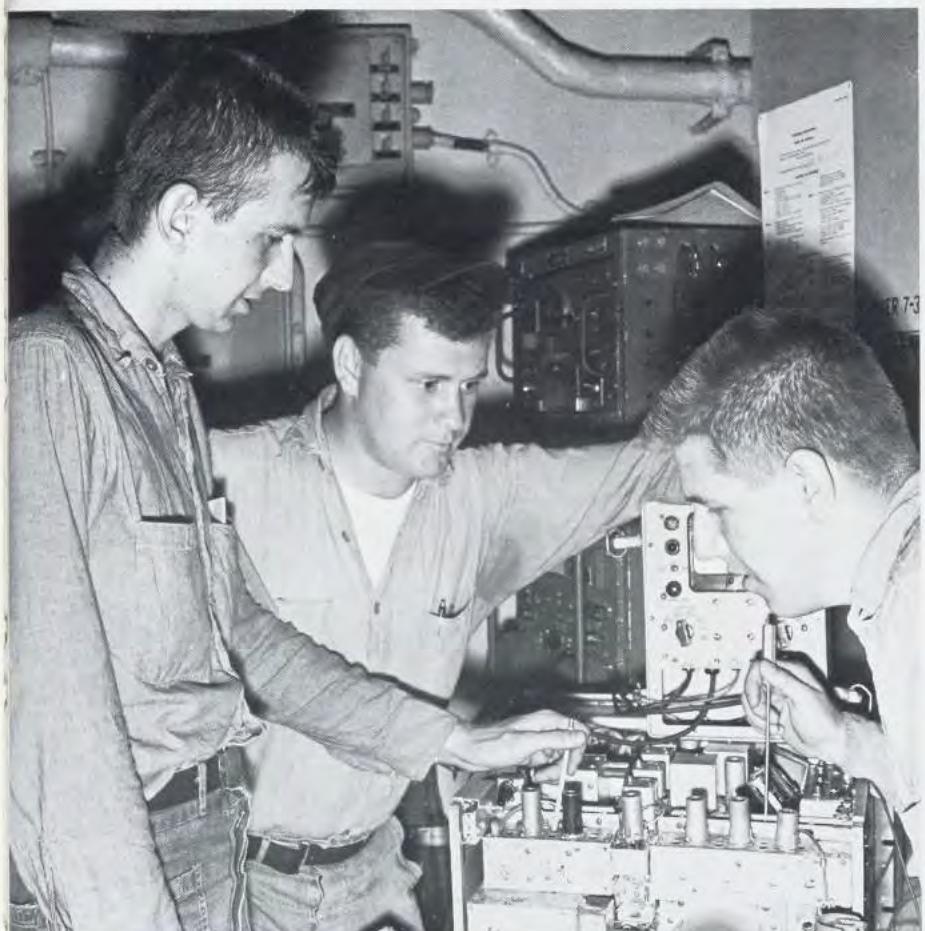

The Bay of Naples, beaches and pretty girls, far flung blue hills . . . an emphatic exclamation point to our Mediterranean tour, before turn-over with ESSEX at Pollensa Bay.

.... The ship is anchored and for some, these words mean a visit to a more familiar port-of-call.... USS INTREPID, for we must always be ready.....

...and there is work to be done.

Even when the delights of Mediterranean ports beckon, one half the crew remains on board to maintain this readiness...

... to repair machines, check equipment, to paint and clean, prepare food and reports, mend clothes and teeth ... to keep INTREPID ready to move.

The Intrepid Marines maintained their readiness, too....

as they took "the beach" during in port exercises designed to simulate actual landing conditions.

*The port known as INTREPID had its visitors, too
.... and its ceremonies, if not souvenirs*

*a cake cutting, formal inspections,
an anniversary landing,
the arrival of a lovely actress*

The hangar bay became a stage as men of INTREPID learned to amuse themselves, and each other, in "amateur" theatrics which delighted the audience.....

*....or with decidedly professional visitors,
equally as entertaining....and a lot better looking!*

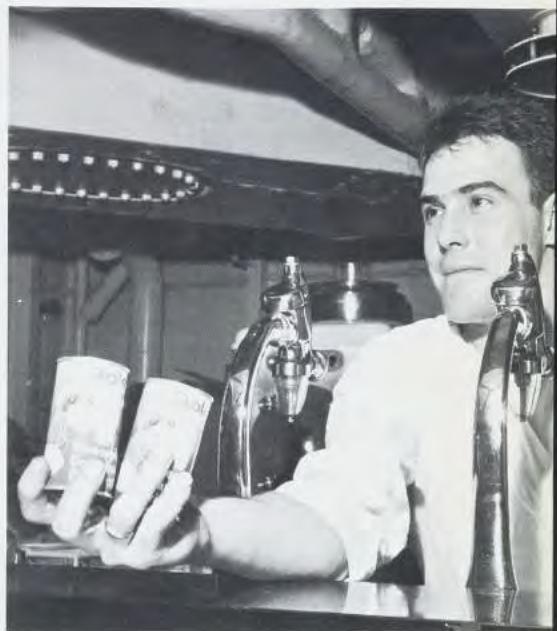

! (as you can see)

*Knock off ship's work . . .
and keep busy during liberty hours with the radio station, a movie, favorite hobbies, the gedunk stand, a hot volleyball game . . .*

or letterwriting . . .

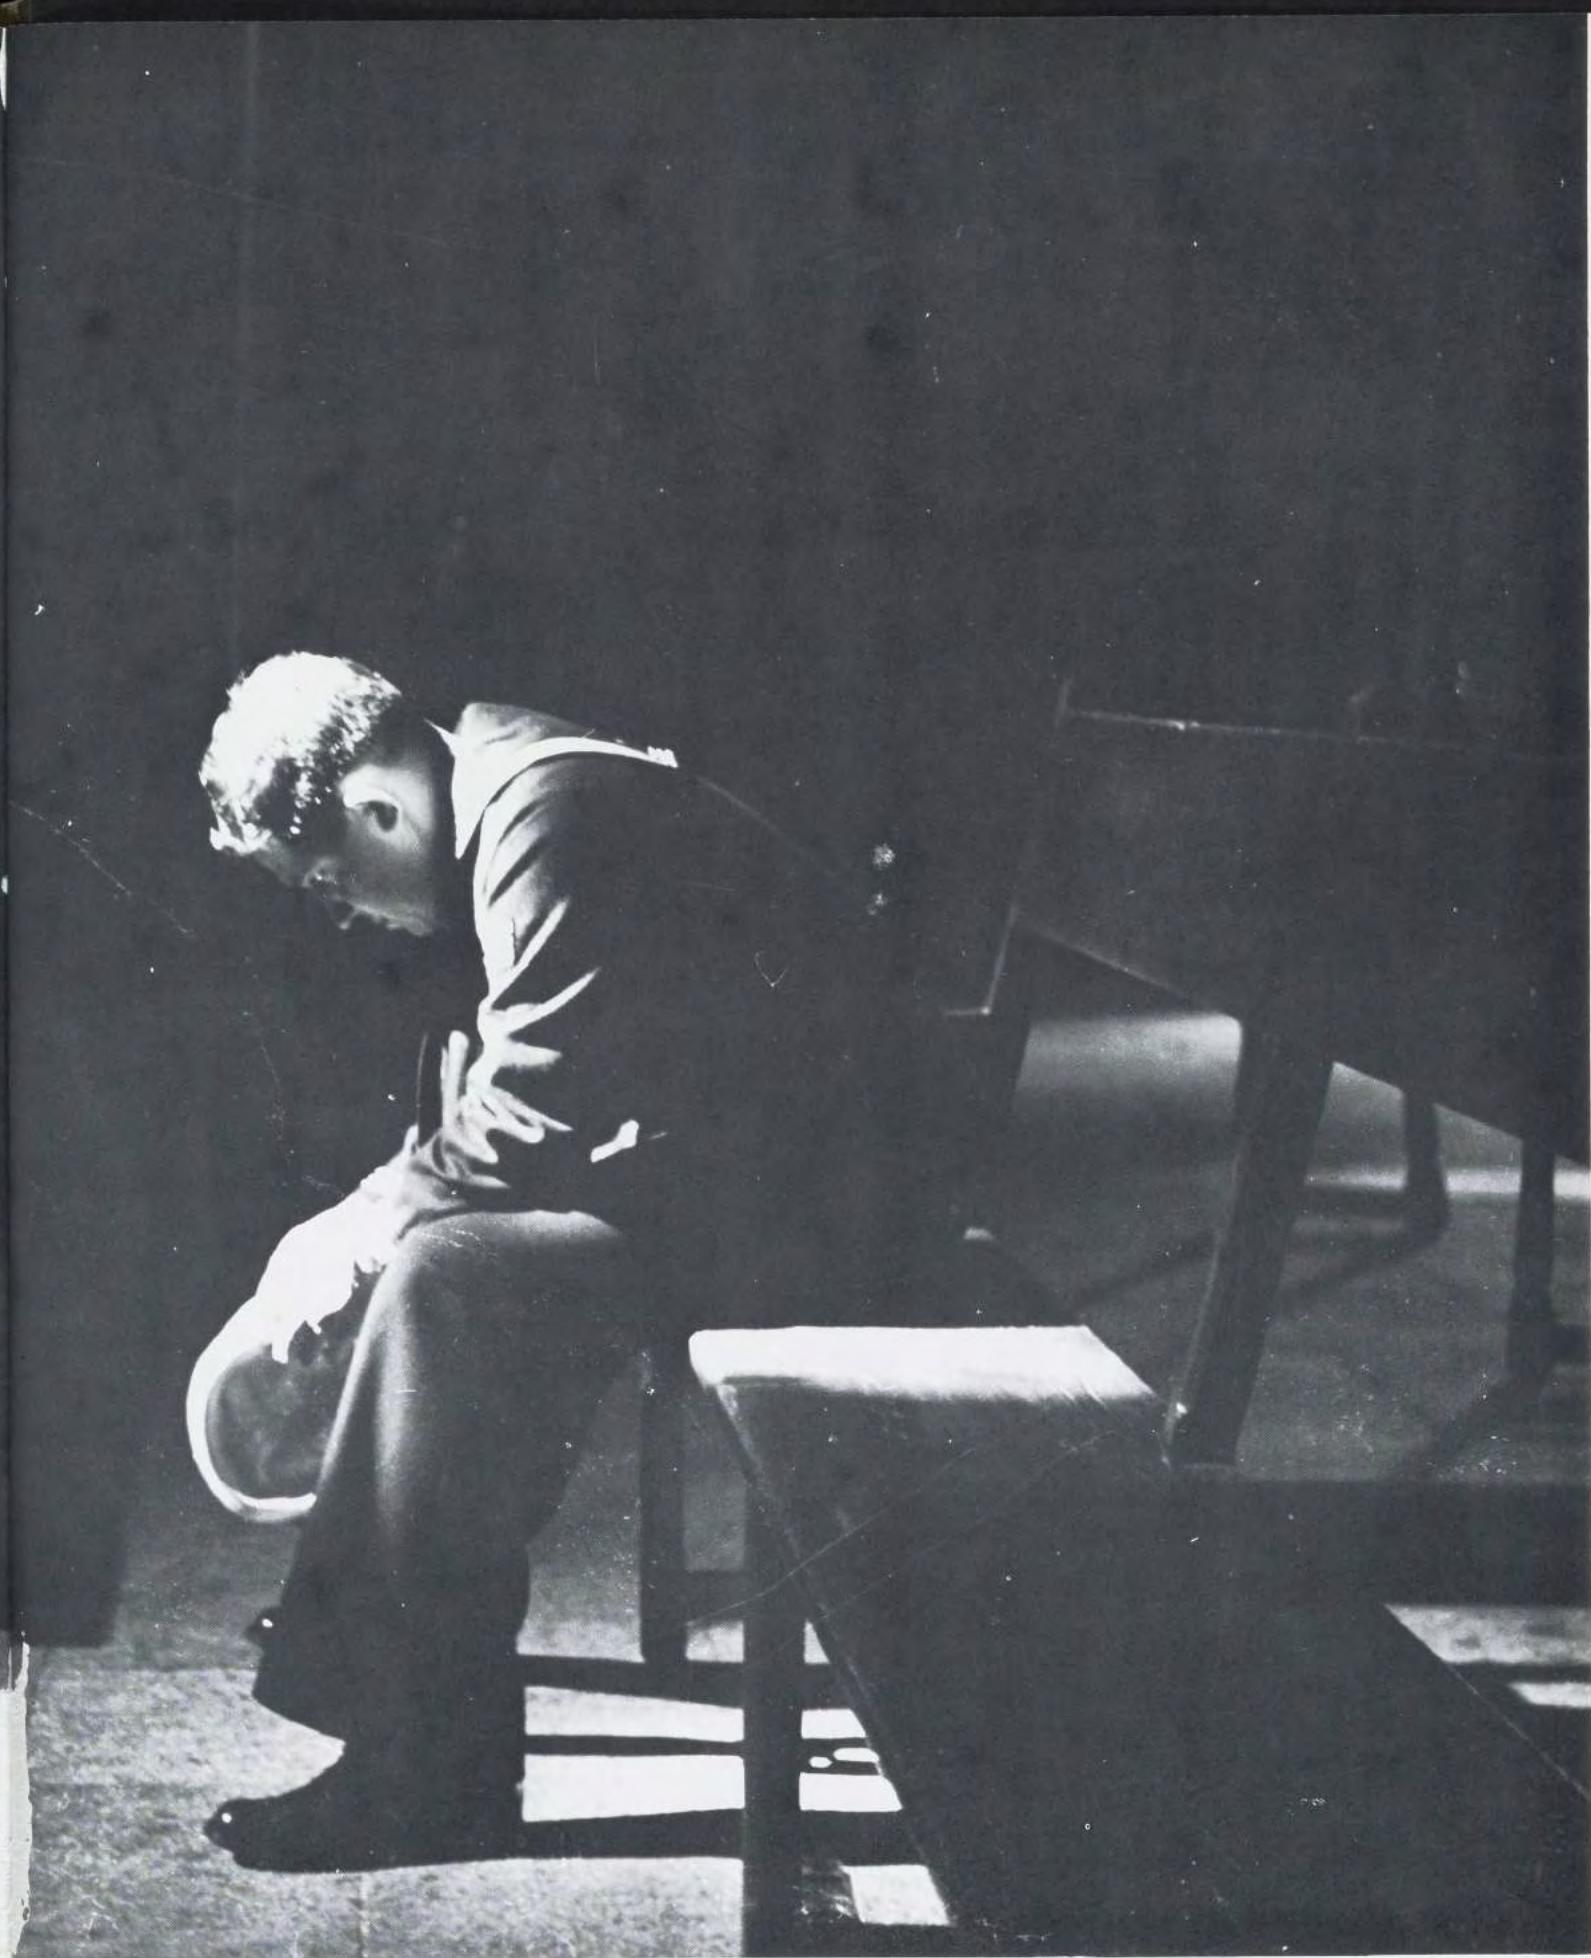

*... or sunbathing
on the flight deck.
(remember the beach
at Cannes, at Capri . . .
at Palma
. . . remember?)*

*Yes, there was a time for memories... and there will be more time for moments of solitude
and reflection,*

happy moments

and serious ones....

as we remember what was ours for a little while before we turned west for home.

A dramatic black and white photograph of a cloudy sky over a body of water. The sky is filled with dark, heavy clouds, with patches of lighter, broken clouds visible. The horizon line is low, showing a calm sea or lake. In the center of the image, the words "IN MEMORIAM" are printed in a bold, sans-serif font.

IN MEMORIAM

The background of the entire page is a black and white photograph of a sky filled with dark, heavy clouds. Below the clouds, the landscape is dark and indistinct, suggesting a field or plain. In the bottom left corner, there is a small, dark, rectangular shape that appears to be the silhouette of a vehicle or a group of people.

Lance Corporal Egils A. Mezaraups, U.S. Marine Corps.
